Prohibition, municipal ownership of public utilities and taxation, including the candidacy of a woman for mayor at Urbana, were involved in more than a hundred city and township elections in various parts of the state today.

Chicago, where Mayor William Hale Thompson, Republican, was opposed for reelection to a fourth term by Anton Cermak, State Democratic leader, drew eyes of the nation as issues there in addition to those involving gangland and taxes, also included the proposition of determining who shall be head of Chicago's government during the world's fair which opens in 1933.

Peoria, second largest city in the state and famous before prohibition for its whiskey distilleries, also voted today to elect a new mayor, its present one having been defeated for nomination in last month's primary.

Woman Is Candidate
Mrs. Ruth Lander Kidder, Urbana, had the unique distinction of being the first woman to run for mayor of her city and of being the only woman seeking a mayoralty in today's city elections although many women are candidates for various lesser offices.

With a few exceptions most issues involved in today's elections were of a purely local nature.

The exceptions were at Springfield, where municipal ownership of utilities was injected into the campaign; at Rockford, where Charles L. Newberry is the law enforcement candidate; and at East St. Louis where M. L. Harris, reform candidate, is seeking to unseat Mayor Frank Doyle.

Election at Galesburg was a formality as there was but one ticket in the field, all contests for places on the People's ticket having been settled at the February 17 primary.

Other places at which city elections were held today included Belleville, East St. Louis, Hoopston, Bloomington, Du Quoin, DeKalb, Freeport, LaSalle, Ottawa and Oglesby.

By MERTON T. AKERS

United Press Staff Correspondent
Chicago, April 7.—(UP)—Sporadic fist fights and the arrest of an entire election staff in one precinct accompanied heavy balloting today as forces behind the mayoralty candidacies of William Hale Thompson and Anton J. Cermak settled their differences at the polls.

Bitterness that marked the campaigns of those two giants of Chicago politics was reflected in the voting which took place under the surveillance of thousands of guards and partisan watchers. Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, head of the Election Board, reported before noon that his headquarters was swamped with calls for officers to quiet minor disturbances in the troublesome wards. He foresaw no major outbreaks.

Board Replaced

Three women and two men comprising the staff of election officials of the 16th precinct in the 27th ward were arrested and replaced by Judge Jarecki's investigators for failing to file suspect notices after the primary of last month.

Republicans who deserted Mayor Thompson after he had been nominated by his party for a fourth term were reported to be carrying a heavy vote over to Cermak, the Democratic candidate.

Thompson's supporters at the same time announced that numerous Democrats were flocking to their standard and predicted the mayor would be re-elected by upwards of 100,000 votes. Cermak's predictions of his own majority were raised at the last minute from 300,000 to a half million.

Judge Jarecki said voters were casting ballots at a rate which would indicate a total vote of 1,274,000 by 4 P. M. when the polls close. In 1927 when Thompson defeated Mayor William E. Dever 1,010,582 votes were cast.

Perfect Day

Clear skies canopied the city as the struggle to elect a world's fair mayor came to an end. Workers stood about the polling places without their overcoats. Others brought other voters to the polls in open automobiles.

First outside arrests of the day were made at Ogden and Kedzie Avenues on the west side when police brought in three 24th ward workers for Cermak. They were Sam Harris, William Cohen and Lewis Dann. Watchers said the men were annoying voters. They were found to be unarmed.

NEWS

DANGER IN YAWNING

Lincoln, Ill., Apr. 7.—(AP)—If any further proof of spring's arrival were needed Miss Virginia Seibert, a high school pupil supplied it yesterday.

"What a fine spring morning!" she commented as she yawned and prepared for school.

Today hospital attendants said she was resting easily after her dislocated jaw had been set.

VEGETARIAN WINS

Chicago, Apr. 7.—(AP)—Vegetarianism is something of a passion with Max Richling.

Imagine his feelings yesterday as he stood in the court of Judge Leon Edelman, accused of stealing a kettle full of soup the base of which was beef broth.

"Your honor," said Max, "I am a vegetarian. My father was a vegetarian before me. Someone with a taste for beef stole that soup."

"Your words," said the judge, "carry conviction" as he dismissed a complaint made by Mrs. Anna Man, owner of an apartment building, where Max is employed as a janitor.

ALCOCK GOT LAUGH

Chicago, Apr. 7.—(UP)—Acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock laughed heartily today over a telephone conversation with a reporter for the Daily Herald in London.

The London paper called to ask Alcock how many people would be killed in the mayoralty election and he thought "Big Bill" Thompson would win.

Alcock replied that nobody would get hurt and asked if Thompson could depend upon having the moral support of King George.

The Commissioner got his biggest laugh, he said, when he learned the call had cost the newspaper $33.

EXILED FROM HOME

Chicago, Apr. 7.—(AP)—A sentence providing he must stay away from home three months because he is annoyed sometimes by a radio, was imposed upon Albert Saltrecht today.

He was accused of charging head-down through a living room window at his home as a demonstration against the radio which his wife had turned on in his home the other night. Judge Alfred O. Erickson, before whom he was arraigned, recalled he had jailed Albert once before for a similar demonstration, and looked as though he would do it again when Albert said:

"If you put me in jail you'd prevent me from doing my duty as a citizen by going to the polls to vote."

"You win," said the judge, as he imposed the stay-away-from home sentence.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Chicago, April 7.—(UP)—Eric Farrar wore his "working clothes" when he went for a walk at night and as a result was kidnapped and robbed.

Farrar, a butler, wore his uniform when he and his wife, a maid, went walking last night in one of the city's most fashionable sections.

Three bandits mistook them for one of the wealthy couples of the neighborhood. They took Mrs. Farrar's $250 fur coat and left her, forcing Farrar to accompany them in their car.

Farrar pleaded that he was a butler, not a millionaire. The bandits laughed. He pleaded some more. Half convinced, they searched him. "Sorry," they said as they freed him, miles from home, "we thought you were a high-bat."

REAL MOTHER LOVE

Washington, April 7.—(UP)—Manganese, they say, is the cause of mother love, and if that be true, someone must have been playing tricks with the diet of the lady squirrel who made the front page here.

A truck was pulling down the remnant of the wall of Poll's theater on Pennsylvania Avenue, when a cable used by the wreckers struck a tree.

An adult squirrel appeared on the opposite side of the street, scampered purposefully across, and vanished in a hole nine feet up the trunk. Presently it emerged, grasping in its mouth an infant squirrel, and dashed back across the busy avenue, skillfully dodging traffic hazards.

The baby was deposited in a birdhouse in a park tree.

The process was repeated with a second baby after which the task completed and her children safe, Mrs. Squirrel departed with dignity.

VOLIVA INJURED

Zion, Ill., Apr. 7.—(AP)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of a religious organization here, who recently declared on his return from a trip around the world that he could prove the earth is flat, is confined to his home with an injured foot. He burned it on a heater the other day when he stepped from his bath tub.

DOUBLE LIFE OF
BIGAMIST SHOWN
IN HIS SUICIDEArizona Publisher's Past Is Revealed In His Destruction

Yuma, Ariz., Apr. 7.—(UP)—An extensive search for Hutton Bellah, 35, formerly a prominent Oklahoma publisher, ended in a morgue here today where Bellah, known locally as Wil-A. Lee, lay dead.

Fear of exposure as a bigamist is believed to have prompted the young newspaperman to commit suicide by shooting himself through the head with a 38 calibre automatic pistol.

Notes indicated that he was troubled in mind. One intended for Mrs. Lee, formerly Miss Edna Louise Schatz, a Plattville, Wis., music teacher, read:

"I can't go on. I am sorry. I am not all bad."

Mrs. Lee, 25, was near collapse. Yesterday she related to a Coroner's jury how the man she met and married as William A. Lee suddenly seized a pistol Monday morning and after hastily scribbling the note, ended his life.

The couple came here last October and Bellah brought control of Yuma Evening Sentinel.

"He seemed to have something on his mind," one friend who saw him Sunday at a nearby resort just across the international line, said. "He told me he had been ill but that he felt better."

Bellah was editor and publisher of the Times-Democrat of Altus, Okla., until he sold it two years ago when he moved to California. Shortly afterward he disappeared.

Married In Rockford

The first inkling that Lee was not his true name occurred a few hours after his suicide when Dr. C. A. Wright of Los Angeles telephoned to Earl A. Freeman, County Coroner, saying he believed the man known as Lee was Bellah.

Dr. Wright said his wife was Mrs. Bellah's sister.

Mrs. Wright, acting for her sister, left Los Angeles last night and sometime today the day will expound the body of the man for purposes of officially identifying him.

Two of the notes written by Bellah also served to reveal his secret. He never referred to Oklahoma or (Continued on Page 2)

Expert Whipping In Florida Is Alleged

St. Petersburg, Fla., Apr. 7.—(AP)—The police theory that expert whipping for a fee was being carried on in this area by a band of professional floggers was strengthened today by the beating of Owen Jackson, a barber.

Last week six were arrested for a flogging in this (Pinellas) and Hillsborough counties. Jackson's flogging, it was revealed last night, took place Friday night by a gang that abducted him to a place in Hernando county, beat him, and gave him "10 days to leave town."

Jackson declined to give some of the details of the whipping and officers stated they had not learned why he had been beaten. He told them he was whipped with a strap or belt by four men and afterward walked 14 miles back to Elfers, his home near here.

H. R. Jamison of Tarpon Springs and R. W. Oxford of St. Petersburg, have identified one or more of the persons arrested as members of the mobs which took them for a whipping.

There have been four whippings in the vicinity in the last four years.

OHIO SQUATTER AND SEVEN OF HIS CHILDREN BURN TO
DEATH IN CABIN THIS MORNBoy, 12, Badly Burned,
Only One Of Family
To Make Escape

Gallipolis, Ohio, April 7.—(UP)—James White, 59, a squatter, and seven of his eight children, were burned to death today when fire swept their log cabin at Swan Creek, on the banks of the Ohio river, 10 miles south of here.

The dead, in addition to White, are Mary, 20; James, 18; John, 14; Ira, 9; May, 5 and twin girls, Nora and Dora, aged 3.

The eighth child, George, 12, was burned so seriously he may die.

George, though semi-conscious from burns, escaped from the cabin and staggered and crawled to the home of Gilbert Lane, a quarter of a mile away, for help.

The cabin was in ruins when Gilbert and other neighbors arrived and the heat was so intense it was impossible to rescue the victims.

Ordered Out Of City

The family moved into the cabin last Friday after being ordered to leave Gallipolis. They were extremely poor and occupied the cabin as squatters.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. George lost consciousness after summoning Lane without saying how the blaze started.

The fire broke out about 3 A. M. Lane said. The cabin, typical of farm structures in the Swan Creek section, burned like dry tinder.

The children's mother died three years ago when the twins were born. First reports received here were that White had killed the children and committed suicide. County authorities, after an investigation, said they could discover nothing to verify this report.

Miss Doris Miller
Of Compton Called

(Telegraph Special Service)
Compton, April 7.—Miss Doris Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Miller of Compton, died Sunday at the St. Charles hospital in Aurora where she had been removed to undergo an appendicitis operation. She succumbed before the operation could be performed.

Miss Miller, who was 22 years of age, was a graduate of the Compton and Mendota high schools and an Aurora business college. She was employed in the offices of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company in Aurora. Surviving besides her parents are two brothers, Gladwyn, Chicago, and Herbert of West Brooklyn, and two sisters, Miss Hilma and Mrs. McGinnis of Compton. She was born in Compton, March 15, 1908. Funeral services were conducted from the residence of her parents this morning at Compton and from St. Mary's Catholic church at West Brooklyn at 9:30 with interment in the West Brooklyn cemetery.

King George III
With Bronchitis

Windsor, Eng., Apr. 7.—(AP)—England got something of a shock at noon today when it was learned from the issuance of an official statement that King George V., who the country believed was only suffering from a slight cold, actually was a victim of bronchitis.

The statement said the attack was of a "sub-acute" nature, and that the patient was progressing satisfactorily, though slowly.

The statement brought sharply home to the nation, however, that it is barely two years ago since the monarch was hovering between life and death from a chest disorder which originated in a cold caught on Armistice Day, 1928. The King's health has been a matter of keen public interest ever since his recovery the following spring.

Michigan Voters
Kill Death Penalty

Detroit, April 7.—(UP)—Capital punishment in Michigan today had been turned down by the people.

The only state-wide issue in yesterday's election, the bill which would have provided electrocution in cases of first degree murder lost by a wide margin. With more than two-thirds of the state's precincts heard from, the vote against the measure was ahead by more than 50,000.

The figures included virtually the entire vote from Detroit and Wayne county.

Lung Motor Saved
Life Of Infant

Wichita, Kan., Apr. 7.—(UP)—The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Harland of Augusta, Kan., failed to breathe after birth, and for 30 minutes doctors at Southwestern Osteopathic hospital here worked over it in vain.

Then Hubert Busey was called with his mechanical breather. A few minutes later the child was breathing normally. When the machine was removed, the baby cried as lustily as any baby in the ward.

Mrs. Harlan, however, died a few hours later.

REBELS FIRMLY ESTABLISHED IN PORTUGUESE ISLELoyal Forces To Have Trouble In Landing
At Funchal

Lisbon, Apr. 7.—(AP)—An expeditionary force, headed today for Funchal, Madeira, where rebels have usurped the Portuguese authority, may have to fight bitterly in order to land on the island.

Debaration anywhere but at Funchal will be of little use, since the city is shut off from the remainder of the island by a mountain wall 4,000 feet high. Deep ravines make progress toward the city impossible.

Funchal itself is defended by strong natural fortifications and high calibre American naval guns left there by the Americans during the war.

Practically every seaworthy warship in the Portuguese Navy is being rushed to the island, 600 infantry and a contingent of light artillery being due there tomorrow. The coastal gunboat Zaira set out for Funchal last night and the Vasco da Gama today. Naval airplanes are being taken along.

During embarkation of troops yesterday the Fifth Light Cavalry regiment refused to leave for service in Madeira on the plea that they were unwilling to fight their countrymen. They were ordered to return to their barracks and their places were taken by the Seventh Cavalry.

The gunboat Tamega, doing duty at Funchal, has gone over the rebels.

MAP OUT CAMPAIGN

Lisbon, Portugal, April 7.—(AP)—The Portuguese government has decided to take every means to avoid unnecessary bloodshed in putting down the revolt at Funchal, Madeira, it was decided at a conference at the War Office today.

The conference was held before the departure of the troopship Kubanjo for Funchal, and a complete plan of campaign against the rebels was mapped out.

Four government hydroairplanes, it was decided, would stage a demonstration and try to persuade the rebel leaders to surrender. One of the hydroairplanes was damaged, however, while being towed from its Lisbon base, so that only three were being shipped to Funchal.

The text of the official notification by the rebels to the Lisbon government announcing their assumption of power, was made public here.

Rebels' Ultimatum
"The officers of the garrison and the members of the gunnery corps and light cavalry stationed here, indignantly at unwarranted outrages committed by the Government Delegate, dismissed the authorities and have withdrawn their confidence in the national government. The Government Delegate, who is to be blamed for the present situation, had, without consulting the Army, been speaking in its name.

"We declare that we shall only accept orders from a legally constituted government, pledged to restore and guarantee public freedom."

The document was signed by Lieutenant Manuel Camoens, "for the rebels."

Reports circulating in Lisbon today that a military revolt had broken out in the Azores were officially denied by the Minister of the Interior. Censorship on press, commercial and private cables between Lisbon and Angola continued. It was generally interpreted to mean that the government entertains some doubt regarding the loyalty of the African garrison.

Strict Censorship
The strictest censorship is being exercised over all information coming from Funchal.

The only message which came from Funchal today was from the British Consul to the Foreign Minister. It said that complete order reigned there, that all shops were open and business activity going on normally.

The rebellion, the message said, was carried out without the least violence.

The Portuguese government today ordered the gunboat Ibo, which was cruising in the waters off Los Palmas, to proceed to Funchal and await orders from the Commander in Chief of the naval forces.

Robbers Tortured
Victim But Failed

St. Clairsville, Ohio, April 7.—His ears and finger tips partially torn off by robbers who tortured him in an effort to locate his money, Andy Yelan, 55, was found unconscious today in his home at Barton. His condition was critical.

Yelan said three robbers invaded his home late last night and demanded to know the hiding place of $2,000 he received recently from the sale of real estate. He refused and the robbers then used a pair of pliers to pinch his ears fingers until he lost consciousness.

W. W. GILBERT
DIED AT HOME
HERE LAST EVEFuneral Of Well Known
Dixon Citizen Will Be On Wednesday

Wilbur W. Gilbert, one of Dixon's most prominent citizens, passed away at his home, 315 Crawford avenue, at 6:15 o'clock Monday evening after a long illness with carcinoma of the stomach, against which he fought valiantly but vainly for several weeks. Funeral services will be held at the home at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. J. Franklin Young of the First Presbyterian church officiating, and with burial in Oakwood.

Mr. Gilbert was born in Palmyra township, March 31, 1864, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Gilbert, natives of Pennsylvania, who were pioneers of this county. His life was spent in this community, in the growth and prosperity of which he had a great interest, and for many years he was one of the leading agents of the New York Life Insurance Co., winning many awards from that company for his successful promotion of its business.

He was a director of the Dixon Water Co. and the Dixon Loan & Building Ass'n., to which he gave much attention. His friends were legion and they unite in condolence to his bereaved widow and sisters, to whose sorrow they share. An obituary of Mr. Gilbert will be published later.

JOHN M'INTYRE
DIED AT EARLY HOUR THIS MORNFormer Alderman and Dementtown Coal
Dealer Called

John P. McIntyre passed away at his home, 704 Nachusa avenue this morning at 3:55, his death ending an illness of two years duration. He had been a resident of Dixon for past 45 years and for several years past was active in the city council, representing the third ward as alderman. He had been engaged in the coal business in Dementtown for more than a score of years.

Mr. McIntyre was united in marriage to Miss Eleanor Reilly 51 years ago. He leaves to mourn his passing, his widow and the following children: Mrs. Eleanor Curtin of Kankakee; Mrs. Joseph Curran of Long Beach, Cal.; Mrs. C. S. Barker of Pasadena, Cal.; Charles of Pon du Lac, Wis.; John, Harold, Frank and Vivian of Dixon. A brother, Edward, a sister, Mrs. Mary Kewin, and six grand children also survive. The deceased was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, the Knights of Columbus and the C. O. F. of this city.

Funeral services will be conducted from the family residence Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Patrick's Catholic church at 9:30 with interment in Oakwood.

Louis J. Archer
Dropped Dead At His Home Today

Louis J. Archer, aged 77, dropped dead while cutting kindling in the back yard of his home, 307 Grant avenue, this morning at 9 o'clock. His wife discovered his body a few minutes after he had been stricken and summoned neighbors. A physician was called to the Archer home but life was extinct and the body was removed to the Staples mortuary where Coroner Frank M. Barker of Franklin Grove will conduct an inquest this afternoon.

Mr. Archer had resided in Dixon for the past three years. He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Laura Kenney of Lombard; and two sons, Louis Frederick of Seattle, Wash., and William H., of Chicago. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today and will be announced later.

Prison Routine
Being Restored

Joliet, Ill., April 7.—(AP)—Work of restoring routine to the two state prison units here was going forward today.

At the old prison where 1,100 men have been kept in their cells since the outbreak of March 14, about 150 were let in the yards yesterday, while 100 more were to be let out today. The number will be increased at the rate of 100 a day, Warden Henry C. Hill said.

For the present they will be fed in small groups.

At the Stateville prison where the burning of March 18 resulted in the burning of half a dozen factories, not more than 700 will be let out of their cells at any one time until after the state has replaced the destroyed buildings, the Warden said.

Lady Unable to do Any Work, Confined to Her Bed Weeks at a Time; Lauds Merit of New Herbal Remedy.

MRS. WILLIAM HUBER

"All sufferers of stomach, bowel troubles, rheumatism should know of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. William Huber, R. R. No. 4, Manhattan, Kansas. "I had suffered with rheumatism ever since a child, nine years old. Nothing seemed able to help me and I continually grew worse, unable to do my work, was confined to my bed for week at a time, so crippled I could not even comb my hair. But now since I have taken three boxes of Gly-Cas I am better in every way, relieved of that awful rheumatism, able to get around with ease, do my work and really feel myself again. I had also been bothered for years with indigestion, constipation and had no appetite, but now everything is different since I have taken Gly-Cas, my bowels are regulated, I have a good appetite and never troubled with indigestion anymore. It is really amazing what this new Gly-Cas will do in the most stubborn cases." Gly-Cas is sold by Schildberg's Pharmacy, 301 First St., Dixon, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

New Attack Is Made
On Women On Juries

Springfield, Ill., April 7.—(AP)—Right of women to serve on juries in Illinois was attacked in a mandamus proceeding filed in the Supreme Court today to compel Cook County Jury Commissioners to prepare nothing but male jury lists. Charles M. Thompson, Chicago tax payer, attacked the jury right granted women as unconstitutional.

This attack first denies the power of the General Assembly to adopt a law amending a state statute, conditioned upon "approval of voters." It also brings into question the constitutionality of jury service by women, in view of Article 2, Section 5, of the state Constitution which provides that the "right of trial by jury as heretofore enjoined shall remain inviolate."

Dice Game Ended In Death Of One Player

Danville, Ky., April 7.—(AP)—Hugh "Reddy" Smith, 58, member of prominent Boyle county family, was shot and fatally wounded here early today by Craig Johnson, 26, in a row that police said began over a dice game.

Johnson, son of Forrest Johnson, wealthy turfman, surrendered shortly after Smith had bled to death from a thigh wound. Police said he told them he held four other men at bay with a pistol while Smith lay bleeding to death on the floor.

TO TRY EX-BANKER

Carthage, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Hearing will be held April 20 on indictments charging Fred Salm, cashier of the defunct Dime Savings Bank, with receiving deposits after the bank was insolvent. Salm posted a $25,000 bond today. An undetermined amount of Hancock county funds was on deposit when the institution failed, it was said.

IN HIS SUICIDE

Texas while here, letting people think that he had spent most of his life around Madison, Wis., or in the east.

One of the notes, written in pencil on the top of a letter, head bearing the name of Lew Wentz, Ponca City, Okla., said:

"Notify this man. He will know what to do."

A third message, addressed to Mrs. Lee, asked her to send all personal belongings she did not want to John T. L. Jones of Quanah, Texas. No reference was made to Mrs. Bellah.

Mrs. Lee said she knew very little of Bellah's past life. They met in the vicinity of Madison, where Bellah was for a time, and were married a year ago at Rockford, Ill., she said.

Burke Will Waive
First Examination

St. Joseph, Mich., April 7.—(UP)—Fred Burke, alleged machine gun slayer, will waive examination on first degree murder charges tomorrow when taken before Justice of the Peace Joseph R. Collier.

The decision, made by Charles W. Gore, attorney for the defendant, in the state's case against him, and in his defense until he is tried.

The next move in Burke's trial is not expected until April 20 in Circuit Court when Judge Charles A. White may have him arraigned for pleading to the indictment charging the gunman killed Policeman Charles Skelley of St. Joseph last December 14, 1929. The date for trial may be set at that time. Burke is in the county jail, heavily guarded since his extradition from St. Joseph, Mo.

Will Free Beauty
Who Shot Husband

Nice, France, Apr. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Fred C. Nixon-Nirdlinger, former St. Louis beauty prize winner, held here for the fatal shooting of her husband, probably will be liberated next week on her own recognizance, Morgan Farrell, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger's attorney, told the United Press today.

Farrell believed that her release would be tantamount to acquittal. "I believe that she will stand trial, probably the first week in May, but only for the sake of appearances," Farrell said. "I do not believe that the trial will last many hours."

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger was formerly Charlotte Nash of St. Louis. Her mother, Mrs. J. James H. Nash, came to France to assist in her daughter's defense.

Confesses Murder Of Salesman Year Ago

Chicago, Apr. 7.—(AP)—Everett Kappmeyer, 22, of Chicago Heights, confessed today, police said, that he killed Edward J. Wolf, an automobile salesman, a year ago.

Wolf was found dead in a south side street with a bullet in the heart on April 11, 1930. He had taken a "Mr. Weber" for a demonstration. The car was wrecked nearby.

Kappmeyer verified the theory that Wolf was slain when he resisted efforts to rob him of the car.

Kappmeyer was arrested in Mokena, Ill., in company with a young woman. He was traced there by police who sought him for six robberies. The girl was not held.

"Framer" Of Women
Sentenced To Cell

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Sidney D. Tait, first vice squad patrolman convicted since an appellate division inquiry revealed that women were "framed" on vice charges, today was sentenced to serve from two and a half to five years in Sing Sing prison.

Judge Morris Koenig denounced the police system of using "stool pigeons" in vice cases.

Tait was convicted of perjury by a jury which urged leniency.

Drought Is Over,
Sec. Hyde States

Washington, Apr. 7.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde today gave the President and the press a report of what he found on his recent trip through the drought area.

At Mr. Hoover's request, the Secretary took over the President's press conference and announced the drought is over and there is every prospect for a fine crop.

Buildings 15 Miles From Managua Razed During Earth Tremor

Washington, Apr. 7.—(AP)—American Minister Hanna at Managua advised the State Department today that reports of the shooting of many looters in the earthquake stricken city had been exaggerated.

The Nicaraguan National Guard, he said, had killed only one looter and wounded another.

"Investigations have indicated that the action in both instances was justified. The Marines here have not killed or wounded any one. The commander of the National Guard, after the declaration of a martial law on March 31, issued orders that looters would be shot on sight."

"This order was modified on April 4 in the sense that only persons found looting valuable property should be shot."

At the Navy Department it was reported the Navy transport plane, carrying medical supplies to Managua, took off from Hampton Roads for Miami, Fla., by way of Savannah.

SNOWDROP TIME—

H. hush! Tread softly through the rime,
 For there will be a blackbird singing, or a thrush.
 Like colored beads the elm-buds flush;
 All the trees dream of leaves and flowers and light.

And see! The northern bank is much more white
 Than frosty grass, for now is snow-drop time.

Easter Dinner at Guynn Home Most Enjoyable Affair

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Guynn of Grand Detour entertained at a delightful dinner on Easter day twenty-four relatives, Mrs. Ella Brown and Mrs. Dessa Flinn, both of Chicago, sisters of Mrs. Guynn being present. It was the first time in a long time that the seven sisters present had all been together and the day was especially happy to them because of this fact. A number of pictures were taken of Mrs. Guynn and her sisters.

A sumptuous dinner was served from the table which was lovely in Easter flowers and favors, the color combination of green and white being carried out in the table decorations and also throughout the home. Fragrant flowers greeted one in every room. It was a most enjoyable occasion and will long remain a delightful memory to each guest.

O. E. S. Parlor Club Card Party Most Delightful Event Monday

The delightful card party given by the ladies of the Parlor Club of the Order of Eastern Star held at Masonic Temple, Monday afternoon, was a wonderful success. There were fifty-four tables of bridge besides those that were paid for by guests could not attend.

The first prize a beautiful pewter vase, was won by Mrs. Stewart Nettz; the second prize, a beautiful pewter dish, was won by Mrs. Hattie Hoberg of Peru; and the third prize, initialed cards, was won by Mrs. Wayne Wolfe.

Following the card party, refreshments were served and there were so many expressions of delight that plans were immediately begun for another similar affair. The party was continued until 5 P. M. Guests attended from many surrounding cities, including Polo, Franklin Grove, Ashton, Sterling, Peru, Mt. Morris, Ashby and Lee Center.

Mix sugar, milk and butter. Cook over moderate until soft ball forms when small portion is slowly poured into cup of cold water. Set aside for 20 minutes. Add vanilla and beat until creamy. Spread on top of the cake. Sprinkle with nuts.

Wadsworth-Reis Wedding Monday

A quiet home wedding was solemnized Monday evening, April 6th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wadsworth, of So. Dixon, their daughter, Mary, becoming the bride of Robert F. Reis, son of Mrs. Sara Reis, of Dixon.

Rev. A. T. Stephenson, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated at the impressive ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride and bridegroom were unattended. She was lovely in a pale green lace gown over silk crepe de chine, with accessories harmonizing. She is a charming young woman, a graduate of the Dixon high school of the class of 1929. The bridegroom is a splendid young man and is employed as a mechanic at the J. L. Glassburn garage.

After the ceremony light refreshments were served. The home was gay with springtime flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Reis will reside at 210 W. Chamberlain St.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Reis unite in extending congratulations, and best wishes.

Annual K. T. Ball Wednesday, Promises To Exceed Others

The annual Knights Templar ball Wednesday evening, promises to exceed all previous events given by this organization. Requests for additional invitations have been pouring in, for the entertainment, card party, and ball interest a great number of people. The beautiful invitations were mailed to all interested Sir Knights and Masons within a radius of fifty miles and a number have been sent to the grand officers in Chicago, who will, as usual, attend.

The decoration committee has been busy for several days and will complete their work tonight. The committee on arrangements has planned some new features for the entertainment of the guests. The program will start at 8:15 sharp. The preliminary program will be completed so that the grand march can start at exactly 9:15 and this will terminate with the first dance number, following which those who prefer to play cards will adjourn to the parlors, where a very attractive card party has been arranged with beautiful prizes provided for the winners. The music for the ball has been carefully selected and the orchestra has rehearsed some special numbers.

Many of the visitors come each year to see the entertainment features only for the drill, concert and grand march alone are features which are not exhibited in any other affair. Without any doubt this annual ball, which is conducted along military lines, is the most spectacular and colorful event of the entire year and the climax occurs in the grand march with the Sir Knights in full uniform and their ladies in beautiful evening gowns. The question always arises as to whether this is a formal party—it is, only for the Sir Knights in uniform and their ladies, but never formal for their guests.

This event is looked forward to for months in advance and the ladies, especially, devote a great deal of effort in their preparations to participate, with the result that so many attend that it is now necessary to have a card party for those who do not care to dance.

Prince Henri And Princess Marie Will Wed on Wednesday

Palermo, Italy, Apr. 7.—(AP)—Uninvited, 1,000 aristocratic and noble guests were gathered here today for all Europe to attend tomorrow's wedding of Prince Henri, Count of Paris, heir to the supposed French throne, and Princess Isabelle Marie D'Orleans and Braganca, descended from the royal houses of France and Brazil.

All hotels are filled. The bride and her parents are at the Hotel Des Palmes, while the bridegroom and his parents, the Duke and Duchess of Guise, are remaining at the Villa D'Aumale, ancient residence of pretenders to the French throne. The wedding will take place in the chapel of the villa.

This gathering of Europe's aristocrats has been one of the strangest social events of years. They came in a answer not to be usual pompously engraved invitations heavy with gold coronets, but to notice that all those of a certain rank would be welcome.

More than half of those assembled come from countries where royalty has given way to democracy.

Guests will attend a dinner tonight in the Villa D'Aumale.

Yellow Gold Now Style in Jewelry

Peoria, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Yellow gold jewelry is coming back into style, and the days of scarf pins are returning, it was revealed today at the convention of Illinois retail jewelers, 200 of whom were in attendance.

Times may not be what they were but diamond prices are not going to decline to meet diminished demand, according to Henry P. Stecher, regional national officer of the organization.

Costume jewelry is passing out of style and sales are being gradually discontinued, said Harry E. Sout of Springfield, President of the group.

Birthday and Easter Party Saturday

Saturday afternoon a double birthday and Easter party was given for Bud and Betty Cole at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kanzler, 714 Dement avenue. Bud was seven and Betty six years old. There were pretty Easter decorations and the youngsters all had a merry time in playing games. Nice refreshments were served consisting of cake, ice cream and Easter egg candies. Each child received the favor of a toy balloon. Bud and Betty received many pretty gifts from their little friends with best wishes for future happy birthdays.

Mrs. Pinchot Views Employment Problem From Many Angles

(Editors Note.—Thousands of American working women have lost, or been threatened with loss of their positions during the employment crisis. During its early stage the suggestion was made that some of them should be relieved by men out of work.

Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Governor Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and a radio speaker of some prominence, opposes any such attitude. In a two-part interview, the first half of which appears below, she tells of the importance of women in industry and views the unemployment problem from many sides.)

By JAMES A. SULLIVAN
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 (Copyright, 1931, By United Press)
 Harrisburg, Pa., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Women share equally with men in the present day economic organization of life—there is no sex distinction in the problem of unemployment—according to Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Pinchot said that women suffer as well as men in periods of depression, that their unemployment problems are similar and that they can not be segregated as a group in any discussion of the question.

"One can not separate people on the basis of sex in the question of production and consumption. Each has a part in the arrangement of modern, capitalistic society," Mrs. Pinchot told the United Press in an interview.

"It is ridiculous to place women in a separate class when considering means of relieving the unemployment situation," she said in discussing the suggestion that married women whose husbands are employed turn their jobs over to unemployed men.

"Who shall say whether the woman's income is not necessary for the welfare of the family? Who shall determine whether her income provides for the family far better than that of her husband, permits the children to enjoy more advanced education, keeps up payments on the home, on the automobile, on the radio, on the household expenses?"

"To determine whether the employed married woman's income, or that of the girl who lives at home where others in the family are working, is essential or not, we should have to set up a board of inquiry with power to hold hearings to determine the facts. It is as practical to recommend that a married man who has a family of only two children should retire in favor of the man who has six or seven children."

"After all, the fitness for the job is important too. The demands of the work must be considered as well as the needs of the worker. Other practices would be uneconomical and wasteful."

"If every one of the 12,000,000 women in the United States gainfully employed should stay in the home for one day, as once suggested, society would face a problem far greater, far more serious than its present trouble."

"Immediate relief should be taken care of. There is no question about that. We cannot forget present suffering in planning for prevention of suffering in the future. It is the responsibility of those who can, to give generously now."

The whole question of unemployment, in Mrs. Pinchot's opinion, is a "serious arraignment against the organization of present-day economic society" in that it has failed to provide for such cycles of depression and in that employers are as helpless as their employees in such periods.

"It is no good calling names. It serves us nothing to pass the buck. I feel that we are, all of us, to blame for such conditions, not to blame for malice or greed, but for the indifference toward the problem. Because we have been so prosperous in this country, we have not been willing to face the facts that these periods of unemployment must recur and to provide for them."

"If these recurring cycles are indeed inevitable, then it is up to the leaders of business and political science to think the thing through and to take measures to avert, if possible or at least to minimize, the tragedy of unemployment."

TAGGING VIOLATORS.

A new form of traffic supervision is being adopted in some parts of the country, as a result of which accidents may be cut down considerably this year.

It is a scientific investigation of traffic accidents by a squad of police especially trained for this purpose, and prosecution of those persons found to have been responsible for such accidents.

In Minneapolis, for instance, and in Evanston, Ill., several squads of police in radio-equipped cars, with cameras and other apparatus that enables them to take detailed measurements and pictures of an accident scene, patrol the more heavily frequented streets 16 hours of the day. These hours embrace the high points of accidents frequency.

The first 15 days after the institution of this system in Minneapolis brought in so many traffic violators that a special accident section of the regular traffic court had to be set up. During the first four months of operation, the squads brought in 272 persons, of whom 220 were convicted for causing accidents. The four chief causes of conviction were careless driving, failure to stop after an accident, driving while intoxicated, and pedestrian intoxication.

But here is a more encouraging proof of the value of these investigations. Sergeant C. H. Getchel, of the Minneapolis police department, reports:

"The months of September and October, 1930, were the first months in eight previous years that showed a reduction in accidents over the same months the previous year."

This is only the beginning of what Minneapolis hopes will bring about a decided reduction in traffic accidents. If the same investigating and prosecuting zeal were exercised elsewhere in this country, on the basis of the Minneapolis example, our ever-climbing accident rate ought to begin skidding downward in a beneficial and encouraging manner.

STATES THAT WON'T "CONCUR."

Illinois follows New York, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Montana and Nevada in repealing her state dry enforcement act. Maryland never enacted one. So there are now seven states whose governments say to the federal government, "Maintain the present prohibition system if you like, but don't count on us to help."

As far as one-seventh of the states are concerned, the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act are now dead letters. The action of these states is not nullification, but tends in that direction. It might be called passive support for nullification.

Such passive resistance, if it spreads, may become very powerful. The federal government cannot hope to enforce prohibition effectively in any state that refuses to use its "concurrent power." When the rebellious seven gain a few more recruits, there may be greater willingness in Congress to face the situation and do something constructive about it.

THE HIGH COST OF THINKING.

Brain workers ought not to take too much to heart the disconsolate news Dr. George W. Crile, renowned surgeon, gave the Southeastern Surgical Congress at Atlanta the other day.

Discussing on the results of some of his researches, the noted scientist declared that the thinkers, the leaders of modern civilization, are more susceptible to sickness and disease than are other classes. "Their high mental activity," he asserts, "may and often does wear out the entire physical mechanism."

A glance about us, however, should reassure rather than discourage the brain workers. Regardless of all that has been said about the killing pace of our nervous existence, we find among the most prominent "leaders of modern civilization" men who have lived beyond the Biblical span and who are still hearty and active. We have only to consider Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Geo. F. Baker, all beyond 90, and youngsters like Elihu Root, 85, Thomas Edison, 83, and Cyrus Curtis, 80.

The ability of the mentally active to withstand sickness depends largely, we think, upon his mode of living rather than the intensity of his concentration. To live rightly as a youth is the safest assurance against bodily ill. Thereafter the important thing is to balance discretely play and work, relaxation and concentration.

They left the pottery man behind and Clowny said, "If you don't mind, I'll take just one more look at him. He's quite a sight to see. What makes him look so queer?" "Oh, that," said Coppy, "is his great big hat. It spreads so wide it keeps the sunshine off of him. Quite neat!"

And then they journeyed on their way and shortly heard wee Scouty say, "I've heard of great magicians who do fine tricks in this town. Let's look until we find one. Gee, real clever tricks appeal to me. If we just tip one of these men, he will not turn us down."

The Travel Man just smiled and said, "All right then, just walk straight ahead. I know where a magician is. His tricks are very good." They found the man and he said, "Yes, I'll gladly do some tricks, I guess." The Tinties gathered near and watched as closely as they could. The trickster waved a stick in air and said, "This first trick will be rare. And then he shouted something queer. A jargon then appeared. It was made of his small wings flap and promptly stood on Clowny's hat. Then more tricks came and after while, the Tinties all cheered.

The man then cried, "That's all today and now I must be on my way." Each Tiny handed him a coin. He bowed and thanked each one. "Oh, those tricks were not hard," said he. "In fact, as easy as could be. I'm glad I met you Tinties. We've had a lot of fun."

Just then some music filled the air and Coppy shouted, "Well, look there! I guess that is a native band. Let's listen to them play." The Tinties ran up to the men, expectant of a thrill again. The Travel Man exclaimed, "Well, my, this is our lucky day!"

PANAMA WAR DECLARATION

On April 7, 1917, the day after the United States declared war against Germany, Dr. Ramon Valdez, president of the Republic of Panama, signed a proclamation committing Panama unreservedly to the assistance of the United States in defense of the canal.

The proclamation said in part: "Our indisputable duty in this tremendous hour of history is of a common ally, whose interests and existence as well as linked indissolubly with the United States. . . I therefore declare that the Panama nation will lend emphatic co-operation to the United States against enemies who execute or attempt to execute hostile acts against the territory of the canal, or in any manner affect or tend to affect the common interests."

It was announced that the German residents in Panama would be interned if they gave any evidence of being involved in plots.

The Cuban congress on this day also passed a declaration of war against Germany without a single dissenting vote.

vestigated. There are some cases, for instance those in which the thyroid is deficient, in which it is possible to supply the deficiency through proper preparations.

people who work indoors in crowded rooms where the air is bad and the temperature too low or too high are more likely to develop infection of the sinuses than those who spend a good deal of time outdoors.

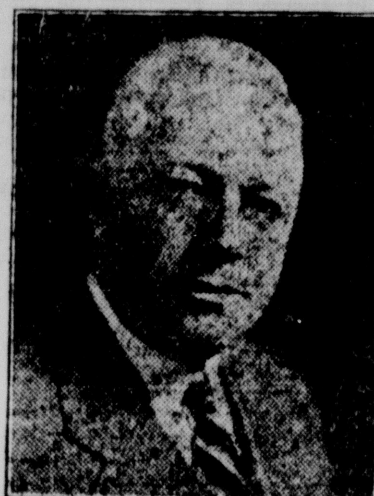

A constant discharge from the nose, particularly a discharge of pus, is one of the most certain indications of infection in the sinuses. Sometimes when discharge from the sinus becomes blocked, there is swelling of the forehead, dizziness and even ringing in the ears. There are several sinuses, each of which must be studied individually by the physician in order to determine the extent and nature of the infection.

Such study involves a thorough examination through the nose of the openings of the sinuses to obtain the discharge, transillumination in a dark room which indicates whether or not the sinuses are clear, and the use of the X-ray which indicates whether or not there is thickening of the walls of the sinuses or any amount of material present in the cavity.

CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS
SHOWING DECLINE
Washington—(UP)—A marked decline in tuberculosis among cattle and swine slaughtered in federal inspected plants has been reported by the Agriculture Department since systematic efforts to eradicate the disease were begun.

There has been a great deal of talk, the report from the Department said, about the manner in which cattle react to the tuberculin tests 2 per cent of the cattle which react to the test do not have tuberculosis. The other 98 per cent which react to the test, have proved to be tainted with tuberculosis.

Conference Speaker

Chicago—Colonel John B. Reynolds, vice president of the Middle West Utilities Company in charge of industrial development, is to speak on "Constructive Industrial Development at the Rock Island Conference of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce on April 13. Colonel Reynolds has charge of industrial development for an organization extending into 30 states and more than 4,000 communities. His discussion will feature the necessity of providing for the growth of industries already located in cities as well as the need of cooperative effort to secure new ones. The year 1931 gives promise of being favorable to Illinois cities prepared to go after logical industrial development. Slow times, according to the State Chamber, have made it necessary for industries to consider genuine economic factors before locating. Illinois communities, for the most part, are favored with good location, excellent transportation, power, labor supply and nearness to raw materials.

Appearing on the noon program with Colonel Reynolds will be J. Paul Clayton, president of the State Chamber, who will present the taxation program of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. L. R. Blackman, publisher of the Moline Dispatch, and a director of the state organization, will preside. More than 400 executives are expected to be present at the Port Armstrong Hotel for the meeting.

El Paso, Tex., Apr. 7—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs are within three men of war strength, and the squad now starting its northward journey, is the smallest band carried on the return trip since they started training on the Pacific Coast.

The crew includes three catchers, 13 pitchers, seven infielders and five outfielders. The final cut probably will cause two pitchers and an infielder to depart.

Atlanta, Ga., Apr. 7—(AP)—Manager Donie Bush is all set on his regular Chicago White Sox outfield, but a lively battle is going on over the reserve spots.

Carl Reynolds, Smead Jolley and Mel Simmons are Bush's choices for regular duty, with Fred Eichrodt, Bob Fothergill and Johnny Watwood in the contest for two other jobs. Watwood was tossed back into the outfield scramble when Lu Blue was purchased from St. Louis to take over the first base duties.

Kansas City, Mo., Apr. 7—(AP)—Except for brilliant pitching by George Blacholder, recently, Manager Bill Killefer of the St. Louis Browns had little to be happy over today. The rest of the pitchers, with the exception of southpaw Walter Stewart have been doing little to indicate they belong in the American League; the batters have not been hitting and the infield has compiled an average of three errors a game.

Birmingham, Ala., Apr. 7—(AP)—Manager Gabby Street of the St. Louis Cardinals wondered what had become of the team's punch. In fifteen innings, six of them against semi-pros, the National League champions were able to collect only nine hits, which caused Gabby no joy whatever. The skipper, however, is confident the Redbirds will start hitting before the regular season opens.

Chick Hafey, the team's heaviest gunner, remain a stubborn holdout. Ernie Orsatti who is filling in for him in left field, is fielding well, but he cannot compare with Hafey in long-range hitting.

FORMER STAR OF PRIZE RING WILL ASK FOR PARDON

"Kid McCoy", Sentenced
For Manslaughter,
Wants Freedom

San Quentin Prison, Calif., April 7—(UP)—Norman Selby, who as "Kid McCoy" descended from the pinnacle of prize ring fame to the walled gates of San Quentin, has applied to Gov. James Rolph, Jr., for a pardon on his conviction of manslaughter and assault, it became known today.

Selby has prevailed upon such men as ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, U. S. Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner of New York and the governors of four states to plead for his freedom, it was learned.

McCoy himself revealed how he was trying to end a 20-year term imposed upon him as the slayer of Mrs. Teresa Moss of Los Angeles, his sweetheart. He said he had five jobs in prospect—among them offers from Henry Ford and Bernard Macfadden—and hoped this would weigh with the Governor when the state prison board holds a hearing on his case in June.

Besides Smith and the two Senators, the 37 signers of his pardon plea included Governors Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, John Garland Pollard of Virginia, Fred Green of Michigan and George W. P. Hunt of Arizona.

Selby, who always has maintained his innocence, was given 20 years on counts for assault to murder and assault with a deadly weapon, and 10 years for manslaughter, the terms to run concurrently. Good behavior can cut the time to 12 years and four months, so that by June he will have served half of such a term. He was convicted in December, 1924, and entered prison in April 1925.

Risko And Heeneey
Disappointments

Toronto, April 7—(AP)—Fight fans of this city today were discussing the first heavyweight affair they had seen in over two years, and the verdict was far from enthusiastic.

Johnny Risko and old Tom Heeneey, the two big boys chosen to put the 200-pound class back in good standing hereabouts, failed to supply enough action to suit the crowd of 5,500 that turned out. They were hooded in the early stages.

Risko put on a brisk rally in the closing rounds to earn the unanimous decision of the three judges and to avenge a previous loss to the "Hard Rock." Heeneey ripped in some good punches in the fourth and fifth rounds and was himself staggered a couple of times near the close, but neither ever was in danger of a knockout.

Heeneey, at 200 12 pounds, had a 19-pound weight advantage over the Cleveland baker boy.

Thompson Expects To Regain Crown

Cleveland, April 7—(AP)—Young Jack Thompson has no doubt but what he'll make good in his chance to regain the welterweight championship from Tomy Freeman of Arkansas a week from tonight.

The San Francisco Negro, in a talkative mood, interrupted six rounds of sparring yesterday to announce himself winner by a knockout within five rounds. He'll box six rounds daily until Friday, when he'll drop two rounds and add more floor work.

Freeman is expected here for his first workout tomorrow.

Chicago Black Hawks
Are Still In The Game

Montreal, April 7—(AP)—Bruised and battered though they are, Les Canadiens were back home today determined to retain their hold on the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's professional hockey championship.

The Chicago Black Hawks, with whom they broke even in two tilts at Chicago, were scheduled to arrive today. Both teams will take it easy preparatory to resuming the five-game series Thursday night.

In contrast to the crippled condition of the Canadiens, their rivals for the trophy came out of the first two matches in fine shape and will be able to throw their full strength on the ice Thursday night.

Helen Wills' Hubby
Didn't Fare So Well

San Francisco, Apr. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis star, had no difficulty in getting free admission here last night to the exhibition match between William T. Tilden and Karel Kozeluh, but her husband, Frederick Moody, didn't fare so well for a while.

Ed Lynch, promoter of the match, denied that there had been arguments at the gate but said there had been "a little misunderstanding."

"A request for passes by Mrs. Moody and her party had been sent in, but William O'Brien, one of Tilden's managers, said 'no passes,'" Lynch said. "When Mrs. Moody arrived she was admitted at once, but the doorman kept her husband outside for a while. As soon as Kozeluh heard about it he took care of him right away."

Rockne's Will Is Filed For Probate

South Bend, Ind., April 7—(UP)—The will of Knute K. Rockne, leaving the former Notre Dame coach's estate to his widow, Mrs. Bonnie Rockne, and their four children was to be filed in Probate Court here today.

The value of the estate cannot be determined, attorneys said, until an inventory is taken. Revenue from motion pictures and Rockne's football articles has not yet been computed. The will was drawn up March 14, 1928.

EXPORTS DROP
AS FOREIGNERS
HIT U. S. TARIFF

Hawley-Smoot Bill Blamed
For Loss Of Over Billion

By THOMAS L. STOKES

United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 7—(UP)—Forty-five countries have increased tariff duties on hundreds of commodities which the United States places on the world market since the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill became effective 10 months ago, a survey by the United Press disclosed today.

Following President Hoover's signature of the tariff measure which brought criticism in this country and abroad for its high rates, one country after another has raised its own tariff wall higher.

In some cases these increases generally are regarded as a direct retaliation of the higher tariff rates which the United States has raised against the world to protect its own industries. In other cases, such as China, the increases have been the result of a change of governmental policy to increase customs revenues and protect home markets.

Effect Bad
Whatever the cause, the effect admittedly has been disadvantageous to the United States. American officials have met the raising of tariff barriers by other countries with silence, but spokesmen for several leading industries, which have seen their markets cut off, have expressed their anxiety over this development.

This is true particularly of the automobile, tobacco and motion picture industries.

Faced by the necessity of developing new foreign markets with the home market reduced by the depression, they have become alarmed at the gradual spread of a tariff-raising fever in countries which formerly have been good customers.

This movement has been accompanied by a considerable drop in United States foreign trade. While the world-wide depression has reduced the foreign trade of all countries, opponents of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act attribute the decrease partly to the hostility which they say was aroused by passage of that act.

Exports Drop Billion
The Hawley-Smoot tariff act became effective last June 17. Export trade of the United States dropped off more than a billion dollars from last July 1 through February as compared with the corresponding eight months a year before, according to official Commerce Department figures.

Exports for the eight months beginning last July 8 totalled $2,241,821,373. For the corresponding eight months in the previous year they were $3,377,608,078.

The value of goods purchased by the United States from other countries also dropped over a billion dollars. In the eight months since last July 1, imports aggregated $1,685,426,390, as compared with $2,705,661,557 in the corresponding eight months a year before.

The United Press survey, based on official reports by its trade commissioners throughout the world to the Commerce Department since the Hawley-Smoot act became effective, last June, shows

W.F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

If you broke open a couple of eggs and found one yolk yellow and the other orange, you'd probably think nothing of it. You know that the color of the yolk depends upon the feed.

But the people in the cities who buy eggs don't know anything about raising chickens and when they find two yolks of a different color the first thing that occurs to a lot of them is that something is wrong with one of the eggs.

This may sound exaggerated to you, but it's a fact that when chefs in big hotels and restaurants get an order for two eggs they sometimes have to break half a dozen, if they are using Middle Western eggs, before they find two yolks that match. They have found out by experience that if the yolks aren't the same color, the customer is likely to complain.

The eggs that are broken open and not used at the time are not wasted. They are saved and used for cooking. But when a cook is in a hurry it's a big nuisance for him to stop and try several eggs. So you will find that most hotels and restaurants buy Pacific Coast eggs—because practically every egg is alike.

Food manufacturers have to use eggs with the same colored yolks. If a manufacturer of salad dressing, for example, put out some that was light colored and some that was dark, nobody would stop to think that the difference was caused by the color of the egg yolks. They would just take one look at it and say, "That's not the right color. There must be something wrong with it."

You may think I'm going to advise you to raise Leghorns, as these competitors of yours do, so that your eggs will all be alike. But I'm not. You don't farm the same way as they do. You can't spend all day looking after chickens. So you can't put as good white eggs on the market as they can. You can't get as good a price for them.

But you can produce better brown eggs than anybody else does.

And there are a lot of people who would rather have brown eggs. Of course, they want even brown eggs to be good! That's why you have to take such good care of them after they are laid; gather them often, keep them down cellar where it's cool, and sell them at least twice a week.

If you take care of them like that, they will be good when they reach the cities. Housewives will pay a premium price to get them. A premium price for your fine, fresh, brown eggs!

So if your farmers here in the Middle West, who have the advantage over your competitors as far as feed and freight rates are concerned, will raise heavy breed chickens that lay brown eggs, I think you've got it all over the Pacific Coast poultry raisers.

All success to you!

Yours truly,

The troubles and the rewards of the home vegetable and small-fruit gardeners will be discussed in the mid-April meeting of the Progressive Garden Club, semi-monthly feature of the Department of Agriculture period in the National Farm and Home Hour. This meeting will be held in the Farm and Home Hour program of Tuesday, April 14, with W. R. Beattie, horticulturist, presiding.

The complete program for the week follows:

TUES. APRIL 14—"Meeting, Progressive Garden Club," W. R. Beattie, Bureau of Plant Industry, presiding.

THURS. APRIL 16—"The Household Calendar," by Mrs. Rowena Schmidt Carpenter, Bureau of Home Economics; "The Price Situation," by Dr. O. C. Stine, Bureau of Agriculture Economics.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17—"The Farm Business Library," by M. S. Eisenhower, Director of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture; "The Week with the Farm Board," by Frank Ridgway, Director of Information, Federal Farm Board; second Farm Board speaker to be announced.

Broadcast from 11:50 a. m. to 12:10 p. m. Central Standard Time.

TOWN IN NEBRASKA TRIES

"DOLLAR DAYS" FOR CORN

Kearney, Neb. (AP)—"Dollar corn" was a reality here recently.

Kearney merchants on two successive days paid a dollar to anyone who brought in a bushel of the grain. Not more than a bushel was accepted from one person, however.

The farmers received theatre tickets for themselves and their wives.

Corn was quoted around 55 cents on the Omaha market at the time.

FARMERS FALL BACK IN RACE WITH DEBTS

Little Rock, Ark.—(AP)—The average Arkansas farmer at the end of last year had paid not more than two per cent of his indebtedness more than a year old.

Only 34 per cent of indebtedness contracted for his 1930 crop had been paid, says a report by C. S. Bouton, federal state crop statistician.

TO EXPAND WILT EXPERIMENTS ON WATERMELONS

Project Nine Testing Plots For Work This Year

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Director Stuart E. Pierson, of the state department of agriculture, has approved plans of the plant industry division, under the supervision of Phil S. Haner, to expand watermelon wilt experiments the state will conduct this season.

Nine test plots, in seven watermelon growing counties, in addition to the melon experimental farm near Carmi will be embraced in the 1931 program. The object is to develop a strain of watermelons that will resist the wilt without sacrificing the qualities that make watermelons marketable.

Watermelon growers who have agreed to cooperate in this project so that the tests will yield results under a variety of soil and climatic conditions include:

For the Madison county melon belt—George C. Ritzgering and John G. Klutner, Edwardsville.

White county—John Brown, Carmi and Eugene Bryant, Carmi.

Cass county—H. B. Moore, Beards-town.

Gallatin county—John Watson, of Junction.

Kankakee county—Martin Vander Karr, St. Anne.

Carroll county—L. V. Curley, Thompson.

Henderson county—F. W. Moorehead, Okawka.

Each of the nine cooperators will tend a test plot, using watermelon seed selected by the state, from strains developed to resist the wilt. The information obtained and the seed from melons they produce will be available to the industry in general as a part of the work the plant industry division is performing to produce melon strains that will resist the wilt.

J. W. Miller, a recognized authority on melon blights, in charge of the agricultural department's experimental farm near Carmi, will supervise the test plots and record the results that follow the use of wilt-resistant seed.

Watermelon wilt, Miller said today, is highly detrimental to profitable production wherever it obtains a foothold. he soil becomes inoculated with a fungus that attacks the roots of melons; advances upward as a parasite and causes the vine to wilt, usually by obstructing passage of the moisture from the soil.

Plans to combat it by chemicals, either to treat the seed or soil prove futile. A long term rotation plan is given as the best safeguard to follow until a reliably resistant strain has been evolved, retaining the desirable attributes of marketable melons.

The melon disease authorities consider it necessary to abandon an infected melon patch for from 12 to 16 years in order to allow the fungus to die out, and add that the infection has been known to lie dormant for as long as 20 years in soil whereon no melons have been grown. Consequently, the melon growers offer their cooperation in the state's effort to create varieties that will grow successfully on wilt infested soil.

DEPRESSION MEANS "BACK TO FARM"

Washington, Apr. 7.—Thousands of unemployed who flocked to industrial centers in boom times are going back to the farm.

Workers for the President's emergency employment committee reported young people especially were seeking land where they could grow a garden and at least have the food they cannot now buy because of lack of wages.

Like the period following the depression of 1920-21 they pointed out that the migration appeared to be growing with a corresponding decrease evident in the number of people leaving the farms for cities.

"Quite a move back to the farm from the city is perceptible in a good deal of my territory," reported Fred C. Broxton, who is directing employment organization work in the state bordering on the great lakes.

VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY

New York, Apr. 7.—(AP)—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat, decreased 665,000; Corn decreased 51,000; Oats decreased 785,000; Rye decreased 311,000; Barley decreased 361,000.

Fee Advocates May Push Plan Forward Again

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington.—(AP)—One of the most discussed and least understood principles of farm relief—the equalization fee—is bidding for the spotlight again as a result of the farm board's decision not to stabilize 1931 wheat prices.

It faces four possibilities—failure to be reintroduced in congress, defeat by the export debenture, a third failure of enactment, or substitution for the emergency stabilization clause in the agricultural marketing act.

There is just as determined agitation for the export debenture, which has passed the senate by record votes on three occasions. The debenture is backed by the independent who are expected to represent the balance of power in the next senate.

If passed, the equalization fee would still face the veto precedent established by Coolidge.

Substituted for the stabilization clause of the agricultural marketing act, the fee would be invoked by the farm board whenever that body agreed with the advisory committee of any community that it was needed.

The fee, once proposed as two cents a bushel for wheat, would be collected at the point the product entered trade channels, and go into a stabilization fund to be used in repaying to the treasury for advances made to move the surplus into export of storage.

Operated something in the fashion of a gasoline tax, the fee would be collected from the processor of a farm commodity, who in turn would pass it onto the producer.

When in the opinion of the board the surplus had been removed, and the commodity had risen from a world to a domestic price basis, the fee would be suspended. What the farmer lost as a result of the fee would be expected to be more than regained when, relieved of the weight of accumulated stocks, domestic markets advanced.

GET NITROGEN IN FERTILIZER EXPERT URGES

Specialist Recommends Commercial Brands For Orchards

Urbana, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Use of commercial fertilizers to supply nitrogen during the spring of the year would improve the efficiency of yields in many Illinois apple orchards as much as six to nine bushels a tree at a cost of no more than 15 or 20 cents, R. S. Marsh, horticultural extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, said here today.

Marsh said that experiments which the college conducted last year in an orchard of 31 year old Winesap trees growing in bluegrass sod in Calhoun county were the basis for his statement.

Trees given six pounds of nitrate of soda yielded an average of 22 bushels of fruit each, while untreated trees yielded only 13 bushels, Marsh said. Ammonium sulphate, calcium cyanamide and a commercial product gave increases almost as large as this. It was the fifth season of fertilizer treatments in the orchard.

Within the past ten years, since commercial forms of quickly available fertilizers have been used in sod much apple orchards, this system of soil management has been the most practical one to use in thousands of orchards, according to Marsh. The system has proved profitable on apples, peaches, cherries, plums and bramble fruits.

About two weeks before bloom, the fertilizers are applied at the rate of one-fourth pound for each year of the tree's age. They are broadcast under the branches of trees or used as side dressing for bramble fruits. It is not necessary to cultivate them into the soil, as the first shower dissolves and leaches them into the ground.

"The cost of frequent cultivations is eliminated and the erosion of soil in rolling ground is prevented by this system of soil management," said Marsh. "However, shallow discing is advised every two or three years and a legume should be used as the sod crop. Also in some sections of Illinois, orchards can not be seeded down to a soil building crop or sod before they are five or six years old because of the danger of injury to young apple trees from the buffalo tree hopper."

"Even though they are cultivated young orchards can be treated to good advantage with nitrogenous fertilizers. Last year in Johnson county, for instance, a three year old peach and apple orchard treated with a commercial nitrogenous fertilizer made an excellent growth in spite of the dry season and a sweet clover crop which was almost as high as the trees themselves. "Each tree had been treated with one to two pounds of fertilizer at the beginning of the growing season. These results are further evidence that lack of available plant food is more likely to be the limiting factor in growth and production than is moisture."

19 Types Of Soil In One County Here

Urbana, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Nineteen different types of soil exist in Edinburg county according to the State Soil Survey of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, which today added that county to its list of 47 other counties which the state has inspected for farm raising purposes.

According to the survey in Edinburg county more diversification of crops might well be practiced as the survey shows it now has less than one-thirtieth of its total acreage in legumes. At least one-fourth the cropped area should be in legumes every year, it is recommended.

Increase of sweet and red clover is increasing but too slowly. Cowpeas and soybeans, although not as efficient for soil improvement as the clovers, are good legume crops and might well be extended, the report points out.

Nineteen different types of soil are found in Edinburg county under the classifications of the survey. Outstanding characters of each type are described and suggestions for the practical management of each are outlined in the report.

Nearly one half the area of the county is occupied by a type known as gray silt loam on tight clay. It is cold and wet in spring and often drouthy in summer. It was developed under prairie grass vegetation and is characterized by an almost impervious subsoil.

This type is very poorly drained. Open surface ditching is the only means of obtaining adequate artificial drainage. Limestone should be added and a legume grown and turned under. After the organic matter content is built up, a trial application of some potassium fertilizer should be made.

A type classified as yellow gray silt loam on compact medium plastic clay is the next most extensive one in the county. It occupies the intermediate sloping land which is formerly, was timbered. It is the most part between the flat prairie upland and the steep pulled land along streams and occupies about 90 square miles, nearly one-fifth of the total area of the county.

It has fair to good surface drainage and fair underdrainage. This type responds well to good farming and should produce satisfactory yields of common grain crops under proper treatment.

State Corn Acreage To Be Same This Year

Springfield, Ill., April 7.—(AP)—Illinois corn acreage will be little changed from that of last season if later planting conditions permit farmers to carry out their present intentions, a joint report of the Illinois and Federal Departments of Agriculture said.

Prospective acreage increases of 45 per cent for soybeans, 20 per cent for cowpeas, 6 per cent for barley and 15 per cent for potatoes will be largely offset by decreases of one per cent in state tame hay acres. The decrease of 2 per cent in the fall planted wheat acreage has been more than offset by much smaller losses of acreage from winter-killed a year ago. Present indications point to an increase of around five per cent in the acreage of Illinois winter wheat remaining for harvest compared with that of last year.

This survey indicates that the total acreage cropped may be slightly larger than a year ago of later planting conditions are favorable.

The report covered only intentions to plant and the report giving crop acreages actually planted will be issued shortly after July first. For the United States, the crop acreage outlook for this season indicates increases of about 5 per cent for corn, six and one-half per cent for oats, 12 per cent for barley, 11 per cent for white potatoes, 29 per cent for sweet, 25 per cent for soybeans, 29 per cent for cowpeas and 1 per cent increase in the acreage of tame hay compared with that of last year. On the other hand, prospective acreage decreases of 24 per cent are reported for durum wheat, 12 per cent for other spring wheat, 4 per cent for flaxseed and 3 per cent for rice. Unless further loss of acreage occurs, the acreage of winter wheat remaining for harvest for the country as a whole will be slightly larger than a year ago.

POISON YELLOW POPULAR

London.—(UP)—Poison yellow and vitriol blue are favorite colors for gowns which will be worn at this season's royal courts. Velvet is a popular material for court gowns, many of which are delicately embroidered with scintillating jeweled work to match the new slender court trains.

FEEDING HOGS

Neither growing nor fattening pigs do well on corn alone. It is lacking in mineral matter and protein and the proteins are not sufficient to balance the ration.

Corn should be supplemented with feeds like tankage, fish meal, shorts or middlings, old process linseed meal, soybeans, skim milk or butter milk or good pasture crops which supply proper proteins and minerals. Where corn is not available and such feeds as barley, peanuts and sweet potatoes are fed, care should be taken to provide proper supplementary feeds.

Good pasture for growing pigs, brood sows and all other classes of hogs is so valuable that it often constitutes the difference between profit and loss in the hog business.

Because they are fed largely on grains, because of their rapid growth and because they are sometimes fed in dry lots and deprived of pasture, hogs require more mineral than horses, cattle or sheep. Lack of sufficient proteins and minerals causes them to produce unthrifty litters.

Self feeders are excellent for feeding fattening pigs. They save labor and therefore help make greater gains.

The practice of harvesting corn or other grain crops with hogs (commonly called "hogging down") has been proved to be economical.

Cotton seed meal can not safely be fed to hogs; they may, however, follow steers that have been fed cotton seed meal.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Chicago, Ill., April 7.—(AP)—Much needed improvements in demand for farm products through business expansion has appeared in cotton, wool, and hides but it is not distinctly noticeable in food products. Prairie Farmer's review of the weeks markets said.

Prices for most classes and grades of cattle have been strengthened by seasonal factors of supply and demand and promise to get further help from those conditions in the next month or six weeks," the review disclosed. "The evidence is not one-sided, however, as there are some indications that too many feeders, especially of yearling steers, are expected to cash in on the April and May markets. Last year, the steer market in April and May was much better than later on. Such a performance usually means a shift in the distribution of supplies in the following year. Prices for beef cows and heifers average higher in April than in March about three years out of four, and May prices in turn average higher than in April with even greater regularity.

"Hog prices in the first half of April probably will retain a substantial share of their rise from the winter low level, but a rather erratic market with a tendency to work lower is probable before long. Barring the war period, the peak of the spring bulge has been reached in March or early April in a majority of years. Occasionally, it did not culminate till May or June, under the conditions, it would seem advisable to let the hogs come if they are near market finish.

"Continuation of the erratic lamb market on about the same level as in the last two months seems probable for the next few weeks, but apparently with slightly greater chances for a decline than an advance. Wool prices on foreign markets have worked higher, although there are signs late in March of halting for a breathing spell. Domestic markets report a broader trade, with prices firm to strong although not quotable much higher.

"The conclusions from the Grain Stabilization Corporation's announcement that wheat prices will be maintained to the end of June, is that steady to strong cash wheat prices can be expected up till then, but that a sharp drop is likely when the crops are withdrawn. Wheat for July delivery at Chicago is selling around 61 cents in Chicago, or about two cents below Liverpool. If prices change to a normal trading relationship, Liverpool prices must advance sharply or Chicago must decline. Based on present supply and new crop prospects, the latter change seems more probable.

"In sympathy with weakness in new crop heat futures and under speculative pressure, corn prices dropped to a new low for the season, but shows fair rally tendency. Receipts are showing another spurt, after running small enough to cause a decrease in the visible supply in the week ending March 21. Cash demand is only fair, but country offerings are now reported to be small. April is likely to be a stronger month than March, based on past experience.

"Many country operators predicted that the peak in egg production, which usually arrives the end of April or the first week in May, would come earlier in the season this year, but receipts at the four leading markets continue to indicate free production. Prices declined under the heavier offerings as retailers and buyers for storage traded more cautiously.

"Attractive retail prices for butter continue to keep consumptive outlets open and the movement is holding up ahead of a year ago. Production is expanding and unless pasture conditions change radically, the usual marked increase in the make from April to June may be expected. Prices usually decline during this period, and although prices are now low, some seasonal decline is likely."

UNCLE SAM SAYS:---

Having taken out his pencil and "done a little figgerin'," Uncle Sam says---

(Official Government Report)

After six months of steadily declining prices of farm products, there was a slight increase in the general level from Feb. 15 to March 15 which is regarded as encouraging.

Higher prices during the month's period this year were reported on eggs, chickens and butter---

EGGS and CHICKENS heading the list! What is called "the price index" for poultry and poultry products advanced 13 points during the month. Grains declined 1 point.

That means that you will make money by converting your grain into eggs.

Feed your chickens well. It is true that hens will lay this time of year whether they are fed properly or not. But if you don't feed them a balanced ration now, they will be weakened by heavy production and soon stop laying. Then it will take weeks of heavy feeding to get them back into production.

They should be fed a balanced ration all the time. And it's absolutely necessary right now if you expect to get summer eggs.

More Need For Farm Education

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—

That there is greater need for agricultural education than ever before was the statement today of E. E. Pierson, director of the State Department of Agriculture, contained in a foreword of "The Illinois Future Farmer," official publication of the state organization of vocational agricultural high school students.

Commending the organization for advancement of farm education Pierson said:

"The plan whereby the students of vocational agriculture throughout the United States have formulated this great national fraternity, with its state divisions and local chapters, is worthy of high commendation. It is praise worthy because it stimulates interest in the cause of agricultural education.

"Now, more than ever before, there is a need for agricultural education, and anything that can advance it is certainly worth while.

"Aside from that, the training and experience in the field of organization work and in leadership, that this Future Farmer movement is developing will prove of great value to all who take part in it.

"The work made its greatest progress through the united efforts of the people who have had the ability to work in harmony. Farmers of today and of the future must unite to hold their own with those engaged in other lines.

"The science of uniting the thoughts and actions of individuals like that of farming, can only be mastered by well directed study and experience. As in any other accomplishment, the successful learn by doing."

Urbana, Ill., Apr. 7.—(UP)—Two coeds at the University of Illinois will represent this state at the Fifth National Camp of Boys and Girls Four 4 clubs delegates to be held in Washington, D. C., June 17 and 23 according to an announcement by Miss Mary McKee, girls club specialist of the University College of Agriculture.

The coeds are Mildred Read, 17, Wayne county and Vera Nofftz, 19, Champaign county, who were selected from 13,500 members of 4-H

LABOR HEADS BELIEVE WORK IS INCREASING

Prices Must Rise To Keep Wages High, Says Expert

Washington, Apr. 7.—(UP)—Belief that business is holding its own and employment is gaining is expressed in an American Federation of Labor survey for the first quarter of 1931 made public here.

"The first quarter ends with a firmer conviction that business has reached the bottom of depression," the survey says, but adds the additional activity of industry and trade "has not been more than seasonal."

"As yet there is no conclusive evidence sustained recovery has begun. The months just passed have been characterized by uneven trends, some industries moving upward, some still downward. Such a period usually comes at the end of a business depression, immediately before revival."

Look Toward Fall

"Competent business forecasters seem to agree that the business decline is probably at an end and that a return to last fall's condition is unlikely. In the fall we may look forward to a more definite climb upward toward prosperity."

Employment gains reported by the Federation survey were "slight" in March but a graph representing the first quarter showed improvement from January to March was "considerably greater this year than last."

Key factors to which business looks for indications of fundamental changes were not particularly favorable except in building and home construction for which contracts in the first three weeks of March increased 40 per cent compared with 25 per cent which would be the normal seasonal increase.

Auto Demand Still Low

Demand for automobiles, the Federation continued, has not reached expected proportions because of "low incomes, particularly among workers." Steel mill operations which increased in January and February "were checked in the third week of March" because of sub-normal demands from the automobile and railroad industries.

But the survey report concludes "business sentiment is continually improving."

"The situation this spring is very different from last," the survey continues, "for this year more of the fundamental adjustments have been made and business men have their feet more firmly on the ground."

Discussing current agitation for wage cuts, the Federation survey says most advocates are connected with banking but that at least one leading manufacturer formerly opposed to reductions now publicly announces an intention to cut wages.

Firms Strive To Keep Wages Up

"Until now," the report continues, "there has been strong feeling against wage reductions in manufacturing circles and strenuous efforts have been made by many firms to avoid wage rate changes."

The survey contains a graph showing that wage declines in periods of depression since 1860 always have been small compared with price declines, although the Federation says the chief argument now for wage reductions is the decline in wholesale prices. The Federation estimates the wage loss in 1930 at $10,000,000,000.

PRICES DROPPED, WILL WAGES?

New York, April 7.—(UP)—Unless commodity prices improve, maintenance of high wage levels, agreed upon by representatives of American business at a White House conference in 1929, may be impossible, the United Press was advised today by E. J. Kulas, Cleveland, president of the Otis Steel and Midland Steel Products companies.

Kulas who attended the White House meeting, said the most serious of all industrial problems is the depressed state of prices which have dropped the cost of living 10 per cent since 1929 with wage rates in most lines maintained at peak levels.

"I have heard of no general wage reduction," Kulas said. "I doubt that any constructive employer unless hard pressed would consent to a wage cut that was greater than the reduction that has taken place in the cost of living."

Low Prices Are Burden

"Our country can have no prosperity while industry is deprived of profits through bearing the double burden of depressed prices and costs that cannot be adjusted to meet declining prices. Buyers, large and small, who seek further to depress demoralized markets are only bringing closer the time when employers may be forced to reduce wages, at least in line with the reduction in living costs."

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors Corporation, wrote: "General Motors has not changed its standards of salaries or wages since the conference on wages and unemployment called by President Hoover which took place in November, 1929. Neither are there any changes pending on either count. We believe in high wages as an important factor in promoting prosperity. Industry as a whole is dependent upon the purchasing power of the individual now more importantly than ever before."

"Aside from our belief, as just expressed, the fact must be recognized that there is an increasing trend on the part of industrial interests toward reductions in wages, which is bound to have an influence on the general question. To my mind, the maintenance of improvement of the present standard of living, irrespective of the wage scale, is the principle that we should adhere to."

14 Years After, "The Big Parade" Still Carries On

RICKENBACKER

YORK

AS THEY WERE THEN, AND AS THEY ARE NOW—Here are some of the outstanding men who came from all walks of life to win fame in the World War, which America entered 14 years ago. Eddie Rickenbacker, the ex-auto racer, who shot down 26 enemy aircraft to become the nation's foremost ace, is shown in the old picture above with his plane in France, and, below, as he appears today as a New York business man. The others are Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's secretary of war, shown above on a visit to the front, and, below, as an attorney in Cleveland, O., today; General Douglas MacArthur, now chief of staff of the U. S. army, and then a combat officer; General Pershing, in France and at present; Sergeant Samuel J. Woodfill, as he appeared when Pershing chose him as the nation's greatest soldier, and as he looks now; Sergeant Alvin York, famous hero from Tennessee, being greeted upon his return from Europe by his aged mother and as he appears today, still a farmer in the Tennessee hills.

The hands of time are turned back 14 years and it is April 6, 1917. Four days ago, President Wilson went before Congress and in an address that will be remembered as long as history is read, asked for a resolution declaring that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany. Now, to the accompaniment of the wildest scenes since the Civil War and cheers that rocked the massive capitol dome, the resolution has passed. America is in the war at last.

From the plows, the mills, the schools, the stores, the factories, the offices, countless young men are quickly drawn from the peaceful pursuits of civil life for the great task that lies ahead. Long lines form in front of the recruiting stations, soon draftees enroute for cantinments by the thousands.

Fourteen years have passed since that historic day. These young men who went away to war are older now, some of those who were not so young then are getting gray.

RASKOB CLAIMS PROHIBITION IS BIGGEST ISSUE

Says Parties Cannot Avoid It In Presidential Election

Washington, April 7.—(UP)—If Democratic prohibitionists have a better plan for solving the liquor problem, John J. Raskob is anxious to hear about it.

The Democratic National Chairman has sent to all members of the National Committee a letter calling for suggestions for possible embodiment in the 1932 platform and practically stressing the prohibition issue. There had been on advance notice of the letter, which is looked upon as a direct assault on the prohibitionist position, as well as on anti-prohibitionists who have advocated equivocation in the platform.

In this connection Raskob said: "Perhaps it (prohibition) is a dangerous complication. So is cancer a dangerous complication. How silly it would be to disregard the symptoms of cancer. How silly it must be for the Democratic party to disregard the prohibition issue because of its supposed peril!"

Parties Should Serve Public

Attacking the assumption that the two major parties are inveterate enemies, Raskob said they should be

Where do some of the best known heroes of this conflict stand today and how well have they sifted back into peacetime life?

The cases of a few of them are illustrative.

Eddie Rickenbacker, who gave up his career as a famous auto racer to enlist and go to France in the same ship with General Pershing, is now vice president of a large airplane company with offices in New York. He became America's leading ace by shooting down 26 enemy aircrafts.

Sergeant Alvin York, decorated by Marshal Foch as America's greatest individual hero of the World War, is back on his farm in the hills of East Tennessee, and also promoting a school for the education of mountain girls and boys. He won his medals by his heroic action in the Argonne in killing 28 Germans and capturing 132 others almost singlehanded.

David S. Ingalls, of Cleveland, is now assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics. When the war broke he was an 18-year old freshman at Yale. He joined up with the air service, brought down six enemy planes and one balloon in two months and thus became America's youngest ace.

Sergeant Sam Woodfill, chosen by General Pershing as America's greatest war hero, was already an old-time infantryman when the war started. He had joined the army years before at 18. This veteran won his medals by silencing with rifle and revolver a German machine gun that was mowing down his buddies.

From waiter to war hero is a long jump, but Frank J. Bart made it. He was 43 years old and waiting on tables on April 6, 1917. But it was not long after that he wiped out a machine gun nest with an automatic rifle and won the Congressional Medal of Honor.

On and on runs the list of heroic soldiers who came from all walks of life.

But what about the officers of high command? For the most part they were veteran soldiers.

General Pershing, who became the commander-in-chief of the A. E. F., had just wound up a campaign on the Mexican border, when called to lead the Big Parade to France. His long military record and knowledge gave the people themselves opportunity to decide this question, thus taking it definitely out of politics.

The chairman urged a platform that would be fair to all, not only to labor but also to capital. He charged that some of his recommendations on economic subjects had been misrepresented.

Re-states Program

He restated his 10-point program, which included a clear tariff policy; taking the government out of business; opposition to governmental price fixing; cooperation between the national committee and members of Congress; realization of the necessity for strong leadership in dealing with governmental problems; an intelligent scheme of farmers relief; cooperative old-age and unemployment insurance; advocacy of the five-day week without reduction in the weekly wage; revision of the Sherman act to meet present day conditions, and state control of public utilities.

U. S. BUSINESS GOING TOWARD FOREIGN FIELDS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United States Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 7.—(UP)—American business men, both large and small, are taking a renewed interest in the development of foreign markets due to reduction of the home market by the business depression. Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein said today:

"This revived interest, Klein said, is manifest in an average of 15,000 inquiries a day during the last week as to foreign markets and foreign business conditions. Ten years ago he said, inquiries averaged only 700 a day."

"There is no question but what the American business man is looking for new foreign markets," he said. "Those looking for new markets include many small business men."

Klein has seen those waves come and go in his 15 years of watching trade trends in the Commerce Department, and discussed the movement philosophically.

"In 1909 many business men dropped the trade they had built up in South America when business returned to normal again in this country and it took a European war for the United States to recapture that field," he said.

The whole energy of the Commerce Department, he explained, is directed to gaining and securing foreign business on a permanent basis.

The present depression is worldwide and all countries are affected, so that the scramble for foreign markets is highly competitive. Many American business men with vision are planning their programs on a long-time basis, realizing that they must always have a foreign outlet

CONGRESS HEADS DECRY PROPOSAL TO RAISE TAXES

Republicans, Independents, Democrats, Hit Bingham Idea

Washington, Apr. 7.—(AP)—Factional leaders of Congress looked with little favor today on the proposal by Senator Bingham that income taxes be increased and extended to curb governmental extravagance.

The Connecticut Republican no sooner had made his statement favoring a blanket increase in levies and an extension to smaller incomes than responsible members of both the Senate and House objected.

Senator Watson of Indiana—the Republican floor leader said:

"I am opposed to any further taxation because I don't think it is necessary under existing conditions."

Increase On Large Incomes

Senator Norris of Nebraska, an independent Republican leader, asserted that while he would not object to a hike if the expected $700,000,000 deficit materialized. "The increase should be applied in inheritance taxes and on higher brackets, or larger incomes."

Senator Harris of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the Senate Appropriations committee, said:

"I am opposed to Senator Bingham's plan in toto."

Representative Laguardia of New York, a House Independent leader, predicted there would be an increase but added:

"There will be no lowering of the present tax exemption and that is just as certain as day follows night. The tax increases in the next Congress will be such that Senator Bingham and his half dozen in the Senate surely will vote against."

Hoover Sees No Increase Need

Bingham's proposal was the first in discussions of the approaching $700,000,000 deficit to suggest tax demands be made on smaller incomes.

President Hoover believes on increase will not be necessary if Congress restricts appropriations. Republican Leader Tilson of the House thinks an increase is not now needed and should not become mandatory.

Members of both major parties have promised to cooperate to keep down expenditures at the next session, thus eliminating a need for more money.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR BRICKING OF DEKALB HIGHWAY

Included in Work Let By State Department Today

Springfield, Ill., April 7.—(UP)—Awarding of contracts for salvaging and widening 54.77 miles of pavement of obsolete design was made public today by the state highway division of the state Department of Public Works and Buildings.

Materials to be used in this construction will include brick, concrete, gravel, crushed stone and steel, according to H. H. Cleveland, Director of the Department.

The work, according to Cleveland, is being undertaken at this time as a part of the state's plan to do its utmost to reduce unemployment.

The use of brick in salvaging these roads will enable many idle brick plants in the state to resume operations, he said. Among the awards was:

Route 6, sec. 34R5, nine miles, De Kalb west to Ogle county line, Mc Carthy Improvement Co., Davenport, Ia., $189,631.35.

HEALO—the best footpowder on the market. Recommended by druggists all over the U. S. 25c a box. 7416f

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
Author of 'HEART HUNGRY', etc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GYPSY McBRIDE, 19-year-old typist in a New York office, married JIM WALLACE the day after she meets him at the house of her wealthy cousin, ANNE TROWBRIDGE. Gypsy has been hired by ALAN CROSBY, back from a year and a half in Paris, and Wallace's fiancée has just broken their engagement. There is no romance in the union. Wallace is a young lawyer. They go to his home in Forest City where his relatives snub Gypsy.

Jim undertakes the defense of NINA ROBERTS, accused of murdering her employer, DR. FOWLER. The case is sensational with circumstantial evidence strongly against the girl and Gypsy becomes deeply interested. On impulse she goes to see MRS. FOWLER, widow of the victim, and finds her hysterical over her adopted son's illness. The woman admits she shot her husband to save the child's life. Gypsy persuades her to go to Jim and confess her crime. At home she waits anxiously for a telephone message from Jim.

FOWLER, widow of the victim, and finds her hysterical over her adopted son's illness. The woman admits she shot her husband to save the child's life. Gypsy persuades her to go to Jim and confess her crime. At home she waits anxiously for a telephone message from Jim.

At the door Gypsy hesitated. "Luncheon will be ready whenever you come down," she said. Then she went out and hurried down the stairs.

"The poor woman!" Gypsy exclaimed. "Where is she?"

"She's at home. Held up long enough to make a statement before the judge and then collapsed. Doctor and nurse went with her. Of course after that the acquittal was just a matter of form."

"What do you think will happen to Mrs. Fowler?"

"Oh, you can't tell. Trial may be put off a good while. There seems to be a big public reaction in her favor. I should think she'd get a light sentence."

Gypsy sat silent. It had been the most exciting morning of her life. To find the barrier between life and death so fragile, to face such tragedy left her exhausted. She gazed at Jim with new respect.

They heard Nina's footsteps on the stairs and Gypsy went to meet her.

"Luncheon's ready," she said. "Shall we go in?"

FOR two days Nina Roberts was a guest in the Wallace home. Gypsy saw to it that she had plenty to keep her occupied. Reporters were constantly telephoning but aside from the typed statement Jim gave out at his office Nina was not quoted in the newspapers.

There were household tasks which the girls shared together. Nina romped with Pat. Over the telephone Gypsy made arrangements with the woman who operated Nina's boarding house to have the girl's clothing packed and sent out. She gave the girl plenty of wholesome food, urged her to rest.

Nina had announced that she wished to leave Forest City.

"Where do you want to go?" Gypsy asked.

"My sister's in Chicago," Nina said. "She's married. If I could get to Chicago I could stay with her until I get a job."

So it was agreed that Nina should go to Chicago. She had a pitifully small amount of money, though Jim's charge for his legal service was the merest fraction of the usual fee. The morning of the day on which Nina was to depart Gypsy knocked at the door of the guest room.

"May I come in?" she asked when Nina appeared.

"Of course."

Nina wore the rose negligee Gypsy had loaned her. She had been making the bed.

"I've got something for you," Gypsy said, smiling. "Two things." She took the other girl's hand and placed in it a small folded object.

"Now you mustn't say you can't accept it. It's something I want to do—"

The folded object was a $20 bill. "I can't take it," Nina protested.

"I guess the whole thing happened quickly. She says she told Fowler what she was going to do. Bobby was standing beside her. Suddenly the child ran toward the window. Fowler grabbed him. Mrs. Fowler says he had threatened several times to kill the boy. She thought he meant to do it then. She knew there was a revolver in the top drawer of her husband's desk and she reached for it. The woman swears she didn't intend to shoot. She saw her husband fall and dropped the gun. Then she picked up Bobby and ran for the stairway. She must have gone down one side at the same time Brophy, the policeman, ran up the other. How she got out of the building without being seen I don't know, but she was going too."

The girl had been crying. She touched her handkerchief to her eyes. "It's fine of you to let me come here, Mrs. Wallace," she said.

"Why, we're glad to have you. Of course! Would you like to go up stairs now or shall we have lunch first?"

"I—I think I'd like to go up stairs."

TREASURY ASKS FOR DESIGNS OF NEW QUARTER

Coin Will Be Issued Next Year To Commemorate Washington

Within the next few days, Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, will invite prominent artists throughout the country to submit designs for the new quarter dollar which will be issued next year as part of the nation-wide celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington.

This will be the first United States coin of regular issue to bear the image of Washington. It is authorized by legislation enacted just before the adjournment of Congress.

While the selection of the exact design for the George Washington quarter rests with the Secretary of the Treasury, Representative Sol Bloom, Associate Director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, will be consulted before the decision is made. Mr. Bloom has furnished the Treasury with a profile photograph of the bust of George Washington by Houdon, now at Mount Vernon, which has been selected by the Portrait Committee of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission as the best likeness of Washington in existence. This profile probably will be used on the new twenty-five cent piece.

Used in 1873

The portrait of the First President was used on a few coins made in 1873, but they were not issued or approved by the government. Such approval might have been given but for Washington's modesty which no doubt made him feel that such honors were not for the living.

Although issued to commemorate the bicentenary of Washington's birth, the quarter will not be a commemorative coin in the true sense of the word. It will replace the twenty-five cent piece which has been minted since 1916 as a coin of a regular issue and as such will be circulated at face value.

The only coin of regular issue in the history of the United States, up to the present time, bearing the image of a President, is the Lincoln penny. This piece appeared in 1909 during the celebration of the centennial of the birth of the great Civil War President and was a result of popular demand.

Quarter Is Popular

One of the reasons for the selection of the quarter dollar to carry Washington's image is the popularity of this coin. Also, officials of the Treasury have been in favor of changing the design of the twenty-five cent piece now in use for other reasons as indicated by the following statement by Secretary Mellon:

"The design of the current quarter dollar has been the subject of considerable criticism. It wears very badly and is a difficult coin to manufacture; the design is too elaborate for the small surface, and it almost impossible to bring the details into proper relief."

George Washington always took a keen interest in the mint, and he frequently visited it to supervise personally some of the work carried on there. Many of his messages to Congress contain reference to the mint which show his solicitation for the institution. It has been said that Washington gave some of his private stock of silverware to produce half dimes because those small coins were in demand among the poorer people and the mint was unable to procure enough of the white metal to supply the need. The female head which appeared on some of these pieces was popularly supposed to represent Martha Washington for the resumably sat for the artist who created the design.

Plan Memorial To Rockne At So. Bend

South Bend, Ind., Apr. 7.—(AP)—Plans for a memorial to Knute Rockne were under way today at the University of Notre Dame.

The Rev. Fr. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, revealed that a number of donations already have been received from admirers of the late football coach. A committee composed of Notre Dame alumni and friends of the famous coach, nation-wide in its scope, will make recommendation as to the form of the memorial. Frank E. Hering, captain of the 1896 Irish eleven and National President of the Notre Dame Alumni Association and James E. Armstrong, National Secretary, conferred with Father O'Donnell yesterday concerning the memorial project.

Dempsey To Retire From Public Life

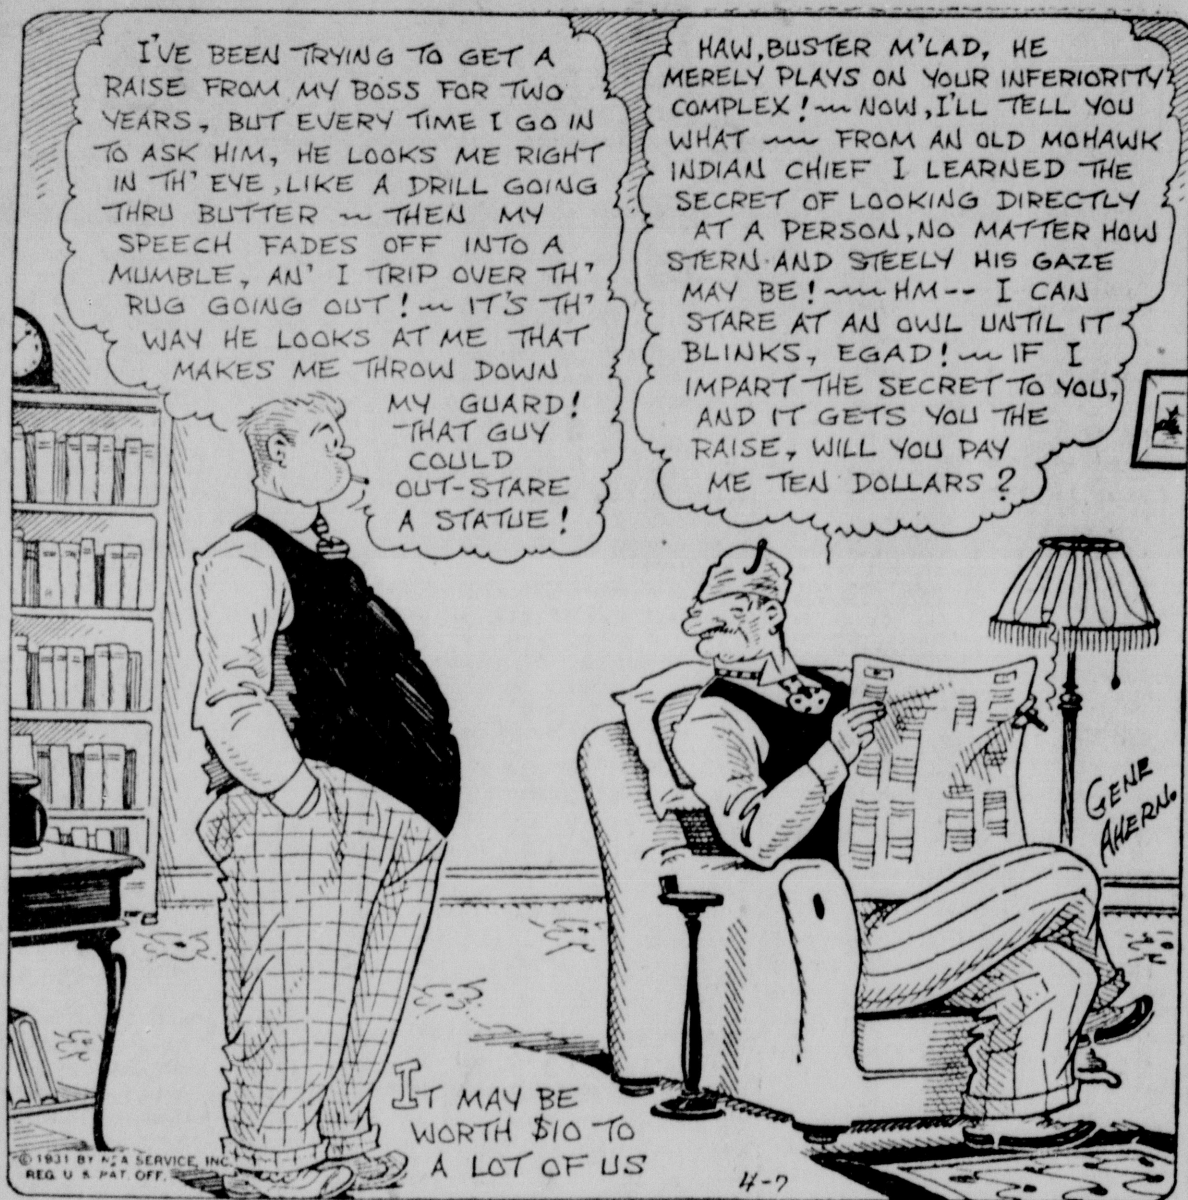

Columbus, O., Apr. 7.—(AP)—After refereeing a bout at Wheeling, W. Va., tonight, Jack Dempsey will retire from public life for at least two months on the order of his physicians.

The former heavyweight champion, who refereed the Bushy Graham-Johnny Farr match here last night, announced that doctors at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., examined him recently and advised him to rest in order to recuperate from nervousness and persistent loss of weight.

Although he appeared robust, Dempsey said he had felt the strain of continuous traveling to referee bouts in various parts of the coun-

I've been trying to get a raise from my boss for two years, but every time I go in to ask him, he looks me right in the eye, like a drill going thru butter—then my speech fades off into a mumble, and I trip over the rug going out!—it's the way he looks at me that makes me throw down my guard—that guy could out-stare a statue!

Haw, buster m'lud, he merely plays on your inferiority complex!—now, I'll tell you what— from an old Mohawk Indian chief I learned the secret of looking directly at a person, no matter how stern and steely his gaze may be!—hm— I can stare at an owl until it blinks, egad!—if I impart the secret to you, and it gets you the raise, will you pay me ten dollars?

"There is nothing seriously wrong with me," Dempsey said, "but I intend to follow doctors' orders."

The doctors, Dempsey said, found him irritable, sleepless and restless and warned that continued traveling would result in "complete nervous exhaustion."

Sharkey Vs Carnera Bout Likely June 10

New York, Apr. 7.—(AP)—The American says today it has learned on excellent authority that Jack Sharkey will fight Primo Carnera on June 10 at Ebbets Field, providing Carnera can gain reinstatement by the New York State Athletic Commission. Jimmy Johnston was named as the promoter.

Such a match has been under discussion for several weeks, despite the apparent obstacles. Carnera is under contract with the Madison Square Garden corporation to meet the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling match, but Bill Duffy, American representative of Carnera and his manager, Leon See, contended the Garden contract was broken when the Hearst Milk Fund withdrew from the Schmeling-Stribling match last week.

The American says Duffy is prepared to go to court to force Carnera to fight for Johnston.

AUTO TOLL DECREASES

Paris.—(UP)—For the first time since the war, the number of mortal automobile accidents in Paris is on the decrease. There were 292 persons killed by automobiles in Paris last year, compared to 328 in 1929. This represents a decrease of 11 per cent.

SUMMER GREENS ARE SUPPLIED BY MANY HEALTHFUL AND TASTY VEGETABLES

By WILLIAM R. BEATTIE

U. S. Department of Agriculture Written Especially for NEA Service and the Evening Telegraph

Spring greens are in great demand even though our markets are now well supplied with kale, spinach and other green vegetables all winter. As summer comes on our desire for green foods is less pronounced. This, however, does not mean that our systems have been fortified with green foods for a whole year, but that we want a change of diet.

Summer greens are just as important in our diet as spring greens. When it comes right down to the greens that are dependable for summer use the list includes cabbage, sprouting broccoli, Swiss chard, New Zealand spinach, leeks, celery and sorrel.

Cabbage Heads List

Cabbage is perhaps our most important green summer vegetable. In fact cabbage is not fully appreciated as an all-year green vegetable.

Cabbage is comparatively easy to grow and the supply can be maintained in most sections, except the extreme south, by making several plantings. Even though solid heads do not form, green leaves are good for greens.

Too often cabbage loses its greatest value, that of its vitamin content, by being overcooked. To be at its best cabbage should not be cooked until it loses its crispness or green color. The same is true of most greens.

Swiss Chard Like Beets

Swiss chard is a sort of a beet, only it doesn't form a beet at all. It makes a lot of tender, succulent leaf stems and leaves that are very fine for hot-weather greens.

Plant it like garden beets. Thin the plants so they stand six or eight inches apart in the row, fertilize it well and it keeps right on producing until after freezing weather sets in. New Zealand spinach isn't spinach at all, but grows big and stands hot weather. It requires a rich soil and keeps right on growing throughout the summer. But the stems should be kept cut and no seed clusters should be allowed to form.

The tender young tips and side branches are the parts used and they are prepared, cooked and served about the same as ordinary spinach.

Try Growing Leeks

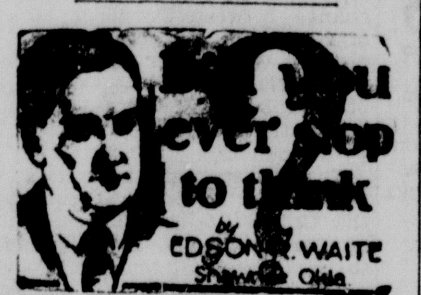

Sourgrass or sorrel is often used for greens. Not the common field sorrel, but the cultivated or special kinds that are grown in gardens. The leaves of the sorrels are used just the same as spinach.

When it comes to a real delicacy in the way of a green vegetable, however, the lowly leek is easily in the lead. Leeks are not hard to grow, but like a number of other special vegetables, they require special treatment.

Frequently leeks are grown by transplanting, but again they are grown in the rows where the seed is sown. The principal point is to plant leeks rather deep, that is, in a small furrow, and then fill the soil in around them so that the main stem will develop into a thick blanching neck five to seven inches long.

The tender stems of leeks are boiled and served like young onions, but have a much more delicate and pleasing flavor.

Tomorrow—Canning and storage.

William M. Glenn, editor of the Orlando (Florida) Morning-Sentinel says:

That probably the greatest "community builder" yet evolved in the course of human progress is the man who will get out on the street with the hammer of smiles, the saw of courtesy, the nails of optimism, the square of rightful dealing, the plane of brotherly love, the level of cooperation, the divider of petty squabbles, the screwdriver of falsehood, the bit and brace of love, the hatchet of vision, the chalk line of morality, the tool box of strength, the pulley of service.

Take the whole "works"—get out and do something constructive, figure on a city of fifty and not ten thousand population; plan for industries, work for greater development of social equality and mutual-ity.

The city and community builder of today must have everything good and wholesome in his make-up; he must be charitable toward his fellows, believing that they have power and energy.

The old fashioned carpenter who goes to his daily task with a smile on his face and a direct, unswerving idea to finish the job in front of him should typify the members of civic and service clubs.

We want builders of men and character, builders of cities and communities—not a flock of hungry feed-ers who stick their feet under the Chamber of Commerce table and the Service Club lunch counters and pat themselves on the chest, singing that soothing warble—I DID IT.

POET'S CORNER

THE LILY

A pool, as gloomy and dark and still As the river of death, lies under the hill: Rocks are above and rocks below, White with the last of the winter's snow; And the trees that in the lifeless air Are old and jagged and wholly bare. The hill is barren and bleak and cold; Its last year's herbage is dead and dead and sere;

Far underneath the frozen mould Oozes the spring to its outlet here. Laying my cheek to the silent earth, I seem to hear in the depths below The troublous murmuring of its birth— The ebb and pulse of its onward flow. The violet blue, and the daisy dear, Could never bloom in this lonely place;

Yet the Spirit of Beauty has lingered here, And left a token of splendid grace. For, floating upon thy icy bed, Embosomed among those rocks of snow, A stately Lily up rears its head, And mirrors itself in the wave below.

Every breath that the zephyrs send, From blooming valley to barren hill, Makes the Lily tremble and bend, Swaying about, when the fount is still.

Lonely beauty, and lonely grace, Born of a wave as black as night; Is it the Lily's fitting place, Where Nature pines with an early blight?

The loveliest slaves of Easter lands Are shrouded and curtained from roving eyes; In the loveliest waste of the desert sands, Some flower blooms only to God, and dies.

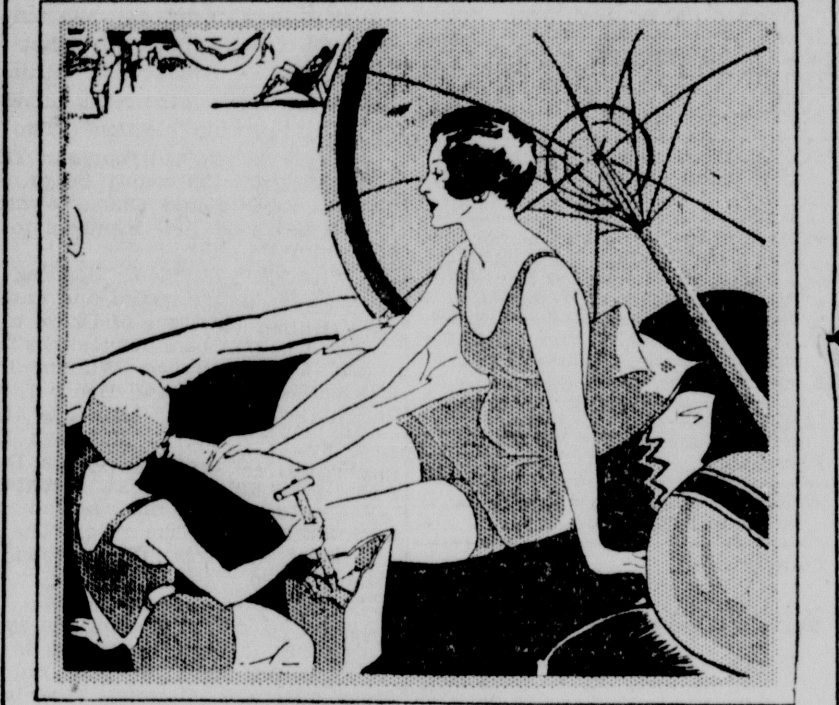

And if, in my dream of the Lily fair, I gird the beauty my eyes have won,

I read the lesson its white leaves bear, And know its mission is nobly done. O thou, who wouldst gaze in those waters dark, And touch the Lily, with tainted hand, Go, loosen thy sails and trim thy bark; The flower and wave are in Fancy Land; They are but types of our daily life, Of the daily blessings and trials given;

The magical pool is the inner life; The Lily, the thoughts that turn to heaven. Mrs. Charles Florabelle Throop, Grand Detour, Ill.

52 times a year you may travel this path that leads to leisure

IN EVERY HOME there stands a clothes hamper. And into it go hours of labor, backaches, frazzled nerves—the weekly washing. But this hamper needn't hamper you. Let us show you the lane that leads to leisure, through our modern laundry service.

Invest your washday in serving as a comrade to husband and children. It will bring far greater dividends than hours wasted at a washtub. Just as you have made an art of homemaking, we have made a business of washday.

Hundreds of women in this community use our service every week. Many of them, doubtless, are your neighbors. They know the joy of worry-free washdays . . . and they know, too, that our way safeguards health as well as clothes!

We are as convenient as your telephone. Call now, and a routeman will stop at your home to explain the different services we offer and help you select one suited to your needs. Start to enjoy that extra day of freedom this week.

DRIVE THE NEW OLDSMOBILE • IT'S A GREAT ALL-ROUND PERFORMER

The new Oldsmobile is an unusually satisfactory car to drive because of its abilities in every phase of performance. It is easy to start—summer or winter. It accelerates swiftly and smoothly. And it gives you command of unusual speed—with stamina to hold it.

This finer all-round performance is the result of a number of important new Oldsmobile features. Chief among these is new down-draft carburetion . . . the source of increased power—with higher speed, faster acceleration, and greater smoothness. This feature also assures instantaneous starting, even at zero temperature. And a newly-designed crankshaft-balancer and a new carburetor-silencer give unusual smoothness and quietness of operation at all speeds.

Each of these features is important. But more important still is another new Oldsmobile feature—the famous Syncro-Mesh transmission. This transmission, heretofore found only in higher-priced cars, enables you to enjoy Oldsmobile's performance to the fullest extent. You can shift through all gears . . . from low into second and from second to high . . . quickly, easily, and silently, without fear of gear-clashing. Further, you can shift from high back to second with equal facility, and without reducing car speed. This feature is particularly desirable when driving in traffic or on steep grades.

In addition, and giving the car extra performance advantages, Oldsmobile has added to the Syncro-Mesh transmission a new Quiet Second Gear . . . assuring smooth, swift acceleration which rivals high-gear performance in quietness.

These many added features make the new Oldsmobile a great car to drive . . . fast, smooth, rugged, and powerful . . . as you will quickly discover when you take the wheel and test the car.
